

News Summary and Index

NYTimes TUESDAY, MARCH 25, 1975

The Major Events of the Day MAR 25 1975

International

President Ford ordered yesterday a total re-examination of United States policy toward the Middle East following the collapse of Secretary of State Kissinger's efforts to attain a new agreement between Egypt and Israel. The White House and the State Department said the policy review would include "all aspects and all countries." Several Congressional leaders who attended a briefing held by President Ford and Mr. Kissinger said later they had the impression that a principal objective of the study would be to re-evaluate United States policy toward Israel. [Page 1, Column 8.]

Israeli Government officials responded bitterly to the White House announcement of a reassessment of United States policy on the Middle East. The statement's significance was not immediately clear in Jerusalem, but it tended to confirm the Israelis' worst fears that Washington would place the major blame on Israel for the breakdown of the mediation efforts for a new Sinai agreement between Israel and Egypt. [1:6-7.]

American officials in Phnom Penh, in what they conceded was a "calculated gamble," ordered the resumption of the United States airlift into besieged Pochentong Airport, the last supply link open to the Cambodian capital. The insurgents kept up their attack on the airport area. While planes landed through the day, rockets fell on the airport, many near the planes as they were being unloaded. The airlift was stopped Saturday when rockets hit two planes. [1:5.]

North Vietnamese tanks and troops reportedly cut off Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, by seizing Tam Ky, the capital of Quang Tin Province, after heavy shelling and an infantry attack. Tam Ky is situated on the South China Sea, 55 miles south of Da Nang. The fall of Hue, about 55 miles northwest of Da Nang, appeared near. [1:2-4.]

Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, was the only reasonably secure base of Government authority in the northern two-thirds of South Vietnam, and refugees were converging on it. Communist forces, which during the past week surrounded Hue to the northwest and occupied the western flank of the road leading south, were evidently meeting little opposition. [1:3-4.]

National

Administration officials said that the potential budget deficit for the fiscal year 1976 had reached the $100-billion level and was still rising under the tax reduction and spending proposals being considered by Congress. The $100-billion would be nearly twice the $51.9-billion deficit projected by President Ford in his Budget Message two months ago. [1:6-7.]

The New York stock market had its largest loss in more than four months as prices tumbled in reaction to the breakdown of Secretary of State Kissinger's negotiations for a Middle East peace settlement. The selloff in accelerated trading affected the entire market, except for gold mining issues, which generally run against the market trend. Losses of a point or more were not unusual. [4:5-8.]

Metropolitan

Mayor Beame told the City Council that he did not doubt that there was going to be a need for new taxes to balance the 1975-76 expense budget. He did not specify what new taxes he had in mind, but he said they would be in addition to his proposed 74-cent rise in the real estate tax from $7.35 to $8.09 for each $100 of assessed valuation. He also said that he had reduced an anticipated $1.69-billion deficit in his new budget to $883.9-million by taking into account the proposed realty tax increase and growth in city revenues. [1:1.]

A bipartisan agreement in the Legislature to cut $297-million from Governor Carey's budget proposal cleared the way for passage today of a $10.4-billion budget for the fiscal year beginning next Tuesday. The agreement however, between the Republican-controlled Senate and the Democratic-controlled Assembly covers only spending. The two houses are still far apart on whether the state needs new taxes to support that level of spending. [1:2.]

The New Jersey Supreme Court unanimously struck down zoning ordinances that would exclude poor persons or families with low or moderate incomes and ruled that every community in the state must share the housing needs of its surrounding region. The court's ruling nullified restrictive zoning laws that prohibit apartments and mandate large-lot home sites. [1:3-5.]

The Other News

International

Marcos invites Moslem rebel leaders to talks. Page 2

Kurds unhappy in Iranian refugee camp. Page 2

Saxbe sees difficulties in U.S.-India ties. Page 3

"Socialist path" is seen for Portugal. Page 3

Mrs. Sakharov, barred from trip, fears blindness. Page 3

French envoy to Somalia is kidnapped. Page 10

Congress approves $3.7-billion foreign aid bill. Page 16

Government and Politics

College aid issue faces high court. Page 5

Sparkman appraises his new job as chairman. Page 12

Conferees start work on tax measure. Page 20

Lobsters lobby for 200-mile limit. Page 22

New powers urged for job rights agency. Page 36

Beame criticized by city's senior Congressmen. Page 43

Levitt doubtful on advance payments to city. Page 43

New move for U.D.C. aid is expected. Page 43

Classic trading puts pension unit in budget. Page 43

General

Experts expect lower speeds on roads to remain. Page 8

Army to give women rifle training. Page 15

Editor who printed an obscenity resigns. Page 15

Depression is a grim reality to many Chicanos. Page 17

Chicago jury weighs infiltration by police. Page 18

Allentown Mayor battles for Federal funds. Page 22

Elderly man found slain in Brooklyn. Page 23

Metropolitan Briefs. Page 35

Prosecution witness ends Ft. Lee testimony. Page 35

Con Ed warns Parc Vendome on overdue bill. Page 35

Integration plan for Brooklyn schools announced. Page 35

Shouts disrupt addict program in Harlem. Page 35

Dutchess County jail involved in dispute again. Page 38

Legality of state drug law being tested. Page 38

Quotation of the Day

"Luis, if you don't want to cut, then vote some more taxes"—Mayor Beame to Councilman Luis A. Olmedo, at a briefing on the city's expense budget. [1:1.]

Prosecution hammers at Atti- defense witness. Page 38

Education and Welfare Limits on C.U.N.Y. faculty advancement asked. Page 58

Health and Science Fine fibers called lung disease peril. Page 6

Drugs aid in fight on 2 lymph cancers. Page 7

Spacecraft goes to launching pad. Page 13

Doctors see problem in use of aspirin for colds. Page 29

City and state nursing home owners in rift. Page 58

Amusements and the Arts

Juble Bovasso's "Waterlilies" is staged. Page 23

Blood, Sweat and Tears plays the Met. Page 23

Conductor stabs himself as baton breaks. Page 23

Preminger's "Rosebud" comes to screen. Page 24

Patricia Wise sings Lucia at City Opera. Page 25

"Rome and a Villa," by Eleanor Clark, reviewed. Page 37

"Huckleberry Finn" is on ABC tonight. Page 59

Going Out Guide

Family/Style Women lawyers still feel unwelcome in court. Page 28

Guests are stars of Ohrbach's fashion show. Page 28

Aficionados of tattooing have a party. Page 28

Obituaries

Stanley Young, a playwright and poet. Page 34

Business and Financial

House urges Reserve to ease monetary policy. Page 45

Mounting concern spurs drop in bond prices. Page 45

Reynolds Metals to cut back operations. Page 45

Zarb promotes study of electric rates. Page 45

Trade talks turn to agriculture. Page 45

Gulf Oil nomination shocks activists. Page 45

Chemical Bank expands prospects for note sale. Page 45

Simon opposes intervention on dollar rate. Page 45

Mideast link to S.D.R. could raise oil cost. Page 45

S.E.C. penalizes mutual fund manager. Page 45

Profit taking cuts soybeans' advance. Page 51

People and Business: Farm-price drop doubted. Page 55

Sports

Boxing architects plot next move for Ali. Page 39

Boxing show appears to be loser financially. Page 39

Stottleny: A discouraging no-progress report. Page 39

Luzinski and Phils outgunning Mets by 9-7. Page 39

Knieks' mystique keeps fans hopeful on playoffs. Page 39

Padres and Cubs share goal: avoid cellar. Page 39

Oliver upset in first round at Monte Carlo. Page 40

Rangers and Islanders still scramble for 2d. Page 41

E.C.A.C. playoffs hurt plans for new league. Page 42

Fonawin is busiest phone for OTB players. Page 43

Man in the News

S. Andrew Schaeffer, counsel to Moreland panel. Page 58

Editorials and Comment

Editorials and Letters. Page 32

Tom Wicker discusses aid for South Vietnam. Page 33

Russell Baker views unequal salvage scales. Page 33

Graham Hovey assays Vortester's diplomacy. Page 33

Stanley Karnow weighs dilemma of the P.L.O. Page 33

News Analysis

Drew Middleton on North Vietnam's options. Page 16

Sydney H. Schanberg on Cambodia aid issue. Page 16