

News Summary and Index

NTimes

FRIDAY, APRIL 4, 1975

APR 4 1975

The Major Events of the Day

International

President Ford declared yesterday in a nationally televised news conference in San Diego that neither friends nor adversaries of the United States should interpret the military losses in South Vietnam as a sign that American commitments will not be honored anywhere in the world. He said he did not expect the fall of the Saigon Government. He made a series of appearances in the conservative city of San Diego to show that he was doing all he could both to save the Government of President Nguyen Van Thieu and provide assistance for the hundreds of thousands of refugees fleeing the advancing Communist forces. [Page 1, Column 8.]

Senior Japanese officials said that they were disturbed and divided by the failure of the United States to help South Vietnam and Cambodia in their crises. They said that Foreign Minister Kiichi Miyazawa would seek a reaffirmation of the United States commitment to defend Japan, including a pledge to maintain the "nuclear umbrella" when he confers with Secretary of State Kissinger in Washington next week. [1:1.]

Little military action was reported in South Vietnam, but tension increased in Saigon over the fate of the remaining territory in Government hands. Military authorities in Saigon took steps to prevent disorder and panic in the city and changed the curfew to 9 P.M. from 10 P.M. Combat policemen in camouflage uniforms patrolled the streets in large squads. [1:6-7.]

The leaderless remaining members of six South Vietnamese divisions from the northern two-thirds of the country straggled ashore at the small port of Vung Tau, 37 miles from Saigon, and with them panic, disorder and demoralization was brought closer to the capital city. [1:7-8.]

The first South Vietnamese children to be evacuated in the current crisis and flown to the United States for adoption by American families arrived in San Francisco. There were 52 of them, and their papers identified them as "orphan boy" and "orphan girl." They were on their way to various states and their adoptive parents. [1:2-5.]

National

At his news conference in San Diego, President Ford said that he was appealing to members of Congress "to stop coming to the White House with one spending bill after another." He warned of a possible resurgence of "double-digit inflation," and asked Congress to put the new budget control law into effect a year early so it could impose on itself a spending ceiling in the forthcoming fiscal year. [1:5.]

The Labor Department provided another sign of abating inflation with the announcement that the Government's wholesale price index declined in March for the fourth consecutive month. The over-all index, seasonally adjusted, declined six-tenths of 1 percent as agricultural prices fell sharply, more than offsetting a small rise in industrial goods. [1:4.]

✓ Jake Jacobsen, a former dairy industry lawyer, testified that he gave John B. Connally, who was Secretary of the Treasury in the Nixon Administration, a $10,000 gratuity in 1971 and later participated with him to cover up the payment. Mr. Jacobsen is the Government's principal witness in Mr. Connally's bribery trial in Washington. [1:2.]

Metropolitan

Governor Carey, at a meeting in his midtown office with Mayor Beame, said that the state "would advance money from various areas of the state budget" to ease the city's critical April cash-flow predicament. State Controller Arthur Levitt later explained how this would be done. The state's help makes unnecessary the city's plan to borrow $450-million, gives it time to seek more Federal cash assistance and saves it $36-million in interest. [1:1.]

Moody's Investors Service gave a ringing endorsement to New York City's credit status and said it would stand by its "A" rating of city bonds—a day after its competitor, Standard & Poor's, "suspended" its "A" rating on the bonds. The announcement was received joyfully by Mayor Beame and Controller Harrison J. Goldin. Both said they hoped the announcement would reassure the investing public. [1:2-3.]

The Puerto Rican nationalists who took full responsibility for the four latest midtown bombings and as well as last January's fatal Frances Tavern annex explosion issued a communiqué that threatened continued "revolutionary violence" against corporations "at the heart of Yanki imperialism." They demanded independence for Puerto Rico and release of five nationalists serving prison sentences. [1:4-3-6.]

The Other News

International

Pentagon expects Reds to try to isolate Saigon. Page 1
East Germans off to build Soviet pipeline. Page 2
Arafat says Israel has nuclear arms. Page 3

Four NATO countries lean to F-16 jet. Page 3
Saudis plan a deliberative council. Page 3
Lisbon military puts pressure on political parties. Page 3

South Korean students in violent demonstrations. Page 3
China criticizes U.S. objection to song. Page 3
Relief agencies in Cambodia look to future. Page 10
Cambodians reinforce Phnom Penh defenses. Page 10
Some U.S. officials cast doubt on refugee aid. Page 11

Government and Politics
C.I.A. sought tax assessor's aid on vessel. Page 3
Levi tells of lag on "Hoover files." Page 5
Withholding warning given 2 sets of taxpayers. Page 7
Ford upholds Warren Report's view of Oswald. Page 13
Peyser cuts ties to Conservative party. Page 14
Jobless benefits down in 31 states. Page 18
Why city fell short on payroll trims. Page 36

Energy
Exceptions weighed on oil-import floor price. Page 43

General

Town worries more about money than war. Page 8
Fischer loses chess championship by default. Page 18
Jury in Attica case begins its deliberations. Page 24
Pan Am to cut Caribbean service. Page 24
Metropolitan Briefs. Page 35

State panel urges whittling of Mayor's powers. Page 35
Austrian accused of weapon smuggling. Page 35
2 in women's gang seized in attack on old man. Page 35
Nadjar allowed to proceed with Nigroni case. Page 35
Woman cook wins suit against restaurant. Page 35

Quotation of the Day

"We will stand by our allies and I specifically warn any adversary they should not, under any circumstances, feel that the tragedy of Vietnam is an indication that the American people have lost their will or their desire to stand up for freedom any place in the world." — President Ford at his news conference. [1:8.]

Eastbound snowstorm paralyzes Middle West. Page 58

Health and Science

Ban on aerosol sprays is denied. Page 18
Jersey nursing-home rates are questioned. Page 25

Amusements and the Arts

Library Museum is humming with activity. Page 20
"Once in a Lifetime" revived by ETC. Page 22
The Pop Life. Page 23
Matteo leads troupe in ethnic dances. Page 23
2 books on multinational companies reviewed. Page 37
Antiquarian book fair opens at the Plaza. Page 37
TV news as show business is studied. Page 58

Going Out Guide

Restaurant Reviews Page 27
About New York Page 18
Family/Style

St. Louis program helps victims of crime. Page 17
For quick child-rearing advice dial Tot Line. Page 17
Traditional exercises criticized by physiologist. Page 17

Obituaries

Mary Britton Miller, poet and novelist. Page 34
Leslie White, U. of Michigan anthropologist. Page 34
Otto Soglow, created "Little King" cartoon. Page 34
Tung Pi-wu, Chinese Communist leader. Page 34

Business and Financial

Market continues down as Dow slides 8.37. Page 43
Increase in money supply picks up. Page 43
Yields of some city bonds at record levels. Page 43
Potato farmers pinched by very low prices. Page 43
About Real Estate: Effect of zoning decision. Page 50

Page	Page
Advertising News	51
Amer. Exchange	49
Bond Sales	48
Business Briefs	54
Business Records	49
Commodities	52
Dividends	48
Foreign Exchange	49
Grains	51
Market	49
Market Places	54
Money	54
Mutual Funds	46
N.Y. Stock Exch.	44
Out-of-Town	49
Over the Counter	55

Sports

People in Sports: Sets name Stolle player-coach. Page 38
Cavaliers battle Knicks in last bid for playoffs. Page 39
Rangers' face red-hot Flyers at bad time. Page 39
All will defend title against Lyle on home TV. Page 39
Yanks to start Medich Tues-day in opener. Page 39
Weiskopf leads gale-stricken golf with a 64. Page 39
Willoughby accepts Kentucky grant-in-aid. Page 39
Miss Goodalagong brilliant but erratic winner. Page 41
Snowstorm in Vermont buoys ski enthusiasts. Page 41

Notes on People

Editorials and Comment
Editorials and Letters. Page 32
James Reston discusses Ford on Vietnam debacle. Page 33
Tom Wicker views joblessness-crime link. Page 33
Thomas Dine on Congress and foreign policy. Page 33
Bryan Floyd: poem from cycle on Vietnam. Page 33

News Analysis

R. W. Apple Jr. on Ford In-dochina stand. Page 13

CORRECTION

In the obituary in The New York Times on March 22 of A. Weston Smith Jr., a financial writer, it was incorrectly implied that he was the author of "Public Relations Handbook" in 1950 and 1962. Mr. Smith was a contributor to those books.