

The Major Events of the Day

International
 Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, in a review of recent Soviet missile developments at a Pentagon news conference yesterday, said that the Soviet Union in the last six months had deployed 60 intercontinental ballistic missiles armed with multiple independently targetable warheads. He said last Jan. 15 that the Soviet Union had begun deploying two new intercontinental missiles, presumably armed with warheads. At the news conference he said that he did not regard the development as especially surprising or alarming. [P. 1, Col. 4.]

National
 The Labor Department said that inflation, as measured by consumer prices, continued to moderate in May. Despite a big jump in beef prices and higher gasoline prices, the Consumer Price Index in May rose by only four-tenths of 1 per cent, both before and after adjustment for normal seasonal changes in some prices. [1:8.]

Dr. Dixy Lee Ray has resigned as the State Department's senior science official, charging that Secretary of State Kissinger and other high officials with deliberately not consulting her office on key policy matters. Dr. Ray, the former head of the Atomic Energy Commission, has been well known in Washington for speaking her mind and after sending her letter of resignation to Mr. Kissinger, she was, as usual, outspoken in an interview. [1:6-7.]

The Mayor of Los Angeles, a member of Congress, a former ambassador to Britain, a former United States Attorney General, the American Legion and the American Civil Liberties Union are listed in what appeared to be part of a master index of persons and organizations that were under scrutiny by the Internal Revenue Service. The list was made public by the House Government Operations Subcommittee, which is looking into improper enforcement activities of the I.R.S. [1:5.]

Sam Giancana, the Chicago gangster who was said to have been a key participant in a Central Intelligence Agency plot to assassinate Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba, was shot to death Thursday night in his home in Oak Park, a Chicago suburb. An official of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said the murder was "a professional hit," and that friction between Mr. Giancana and other Chicago gangsters may have been the reason for the killing. [1:1-2.]

The dedication of what is believed to be the first monument in the United States honoring achievement of Soviet citizens took place in Vancouver, Wash., on the 38th anniversary of the unplanned landing there of three Russian fliers completing the world's first airplane flight from Europe to North America over the North Pole, a journey of 5,288 miles. Two of the fliers, Georgi F. Baidukov, 69 years old, and Aleksandr V. Belyakov, 78, attended the ceremony. The son of the late Valery P. Chkalov, the chief pilot, also was present. [1:1-4.]

Metropolitan
 New Jersey's Attorney General, William F. Hyland, wanted that "state government as we know it in New Jersey would stop July 1 unless the Legislature approves a balanced state budget." At a news conference after an emergency cabinet meeting in Governor Byrne's office, Mr. Hyland said the State Constitution clearly would prevent the administration from spending any funds beginning July 1 if a $412-million deficit was not eliminated. [1:1-2.]

Prospects for additional taxing authority for New York City are brighter. Governor Carey, under increasing pressure from his own party to assist in the city's fiscal settlement by compromising with Republicans in the State Senate on the school-aid issue, is expected early next week to propose a statewide increase of about $140-million in aid for schools. The increase, which Republicans said would be acceptable as a basis for giving the city more taxing authority, will require a current state fiscal-year appropriation of $35-million. This is $10-million more than the Governor has insisted is available in his "fiscal plan." The Governor was expected to take pains to provide an explanation about where that extra $10-million will come from. [1:3.]

State investigators called for the resignations of the remaining four members of the State Commission of Correction, a watchdog agency, on the ground that it had failed to investigate abuses in New York's prison system properly. The State Commission of Investigation essentially substantiated charges that the agency's officials had ignored irregularities and possible crimes by prison authorities. [1:5-7.]

International
 Mrs. Gandhi, at huge rally, accuses foes. Page 2
 U.S. aide bids women work for progress. Page 3
 Argentine ransom is put at $60-million. Page 3
 Zaire is withdrawing Ambassador to U.S. Page 4
 Whites hope to leave Angola in convoy. Page 4
 Uganda postpones execution of Briton. Page 4
 New U.N. agency has critics, notably U.S. Page 6
 London ends a press-briefing tradition. Page 6
 Spain puts seven Basques on trial. Page 7
 Strategic arms talks postponed again. Page 8
 Iranians vote in one-party election. Page 9
 Ford meets Syrian, vows to aid talks. Page 10
 Rabbin gives views on Arab settlement. Page 10
 Fund agency under criticism in Israel. Page 10
 Pathet Lao completing takeover of south. Page 11

The Other News

Government and Politics
 Beame to continue push for taxing authority. Page 14
 Hittings by city down to a trickle. Page 14
 City shuts a prison on Rikers Island. Page 14
 Ford is cautious on court reform. Page 20
 House passes bill for nuclear research. Page 30
 Hispanics in Elizabeth issue nine demands. Page 31

General
 City to counter "fear" campaign abroad. Page 25
 Metropolitan Briefs. Page 31
 Assembly approves extension of rent control. Page 31
 P.S. 187 graduates are victims of controversy. Page 31
 Cancer-prevention center opens. Page 31

Health and Science
 Spacecraft for Mars landing is sterilized. Page 30

Amusements and the Arts
 "Jaws" opens at three theaters here. Page 19

Quotation of the Day
 "Women cannot wait with arms folded for men to achieve a new order before women can achieve equality. On the contrary, women must continue their work already begun to achieve a truly equal partnership. Women must be in decision-making positions in the power structure along with men to build a more just world order."
 —Mrs. Patricia Hultar, chief United States delegate to the World Conference on Women. [3:4.]

Sports
 Watson leading Open after 68 for 135 total. Page 15
 Mets pursue Pirates in Shea Stadium tonight. Page 15
 Yankees shift again: Coggins in, Dineen out. Page 15
 Baseball bounces ball-maker after a century. Page 15
 Newhouse haunted by failure in '72 trials. Page 15
 Roche, Okter gain final in British tennis. Page 15
 Ruffian rated a shoo-in to win today. Page 16
 Shaw first in 2 trials of title swim. Page 16
 Murphy gains quarterfinals in L.I. amateur golf. Page 17
 Pocono auto race track gears for big crowd. Page 17
 Harvard-Washington rematch on Thames today. Page 18

Obituaries
 Edward Mylin, Hall of Fame football coach. Page 30

Business and Financial
 Stock prices rise sharply in brisk trading. Page 33
 Orders for durable goods up again in May. Page 33
 Demand for print fabrics is rising. Page 33
 International tin accord is reached. Page 33
 F.B.I. studies fraud charges on impure coal. Page 33
 Fast action urged on uranium plant. Page 33
 Thrift units had record inflow in May. Page 33
 Jordan is named president of Connail. Page 33
 Patents: Way to verify airline tickets devised. Page 33
 Short interest drops on the Big Board. Page 35
 People and Business: Wage council head quits. Page 37

Notes on People Page 41
Man in the News
 Dr. Max Horton Parrott, new head of the A.M.A. Page 20

Editorials and Comment
 Editorials and Letters. Page 26
 C. L. Sulzberger discusses an Irish kidnapping. Page 27
 Russell Baker on calling the pois, not the cops. Page 27
 Leonard Stevens: Schools need more than money. Page 27
 Romare Bearden on confluence of art and science. Page 27
 Robert Malott: U.S. industry needs modernizing. Page 27

CORRECTION

In an item on the scheduling of extra performances of the Lasseter at the Hayden Planetarium, the Going Out Guide in Thursday's New York Times erroneously put the admission fee at $2.25. The correct fee is $3.

Amer. Exchange	Page 38	Market Indicators	Page 34
Bond Sales	Page 37	Market Place	Page 34
Business Briefs	Page 39	Money	Page 36
Commodities	Page 35	Real Estate	Page 32
Diversions	Page 37	N.Y. Stock Exch.	Page 36
Foreign Exchange	Page 39	Out-of-Town	Page 38
Grants	Page 35	Over the Counter	Page 32