

News Summary and Index

NYTimes WEDNESDAY, MAY 26, 1976 MAY 26 1976

LINE ONE IN NEWS

International

Sixty reported dead in Philippine floods.

International

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said that Prime Minister Castro of Cuba had informed Sweden's Prime Minister, Olof Palme, that Cuban withdrawal of troops from Angola at the rate of 200 a week had begun or would begin soon, and would reduce Cuban forces there by one-half by Dec. 31. Mr. Kissinger, in Luxembourg, called the development "positive" but said that the rate should be speeded up and that the Central Intelligence Agency had been asked to verify Mr. Castro's assertion. [Page 1, Columns 1-2.]

The French and British Concorde that opened trans-Atlantic supersonic service to Dulles International Airport outside Washington, flew home with full passenger loads. The French plane unwittingly gave ammunition to those who would ban it by greatly exceeding on take-off the perceived sound level that would let it land in New York. An offsetting factor was that reactions from nearby communities were mild. [1:3.]

The intellectual climate in India since the Government's suspension of civil liberties 11 months ago is characterized by fear and gloom, exemplified by a New Delhi journal of opinion that reported difficulty in obtaining contributions on controversial subjects.

It said the social sciences in India were dying slowly. Relatively few intellectuals and scholars are believed to be among the political prisoners except for members of a right-wing movement, but there has been a chilling effect on campus dissent. [1:1-2.]

National

President Ford upset Ronald Reagan in the Kentucky Republican primary, while Jimmy Carter won among Democrats there by a landslide. Early Tennessee returns showed both men leading. Mr. Ford's unexpectedly strong showing in a region where his challenger had dominated earlier tests extended his comeback from a series of primary defeats. In Oregon, interview by The New York Times and CBS news with primary voters who had cast their ballots showed a narrow lead for Mr. Ford. On the Democratic side, Mr. Carter was running neck-and-neck with Senator Frank Church, with their write-in rival, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, close behind. [1:8.]

Representative Wayne L. Hays acknowledged in an emotional speech before 316

The Major Events of the Day

colleagues in the House chamber that he had had a "personal relationship" with Elizabeth Ray, who asserted that she was paid a public salary of $14,000 to be his mistress. He said that he had erred grievously in his previous statement that "I never had a relationship" with the woman. He stood by his denial that she was hired to be his mistress. Her lawyer denied that she had tapes of conversations with men. [1:6-7.]

A Federal grand jury in San Diego has indicted 19 persons, eight of them Americans, on charges of international conspiracy to smuggle the drug Laetrile, outlawed in the United States, to thousands of cancer sufferers in this country. [1:1.]

Speculators holding almost 1,000 contracts involving 50 million pounds of Maine potatoes failed to meet the delivery deadline on the New York Mercantile Exchange, subjecting themselves to severe financial and legal penalties. Specialists said the largest recorded default in commodity trading cast doubt on the exchange's future role in potato trading and tarnished all markets where raw materials are traded. [1:6-7.]

Metropolitan

The chairman of the city's Board of Higher Education, Alfred A. Giardino, and three other members, Vincent R. FitzPatrick, Rita E. Hauser and Dr. Francis P. Kilkenny, resigned rather than impose tuition at City University as called for in Governor Carey's proposal for financial relief. They charged Mr. Carey with setting too high a price and offering too little in return. With the previous resignation of Sandra Lopez Bird, there are now five vacancies on the 10-member panel. The Governor countered that they were attempting to evade difficult responsibilities they should shoulder. [1:5.]

A major split has developed among stragglers of the economic recovery of New York State and New York City over the warehousing, timing and fairness of a proposed medical license. [Page 32.] Quintan family seen ready to change hospitals. [Page 32.] Psychotherapist charged in Medicaid fraud. [Page 28.] Dr. Jascalevich to give up medical license. [Page 32.] Quintan family seen ready to change hospitals. [Page 32.] Levi may intervene in Delaware busing case. [Page 9.] Conference hears views on Jewish identity. [Page 18.] Psychotherapist charged in Medicaid fraud. [Page 28.] Dr. Jascalevich to give up medical license. [Page 32.] Quintan family seen ready to change hospitals. [Page 32.] An ideal companion for touring wine buffs. [Page 27.] Late rally saves Dow from a 3-month low. [Page 45.] New leniency urged in textile imports policy. [Page 45.] OPEC seen favoring oil price rise. [Page 45.]

Actors study plan to live in U.S. and corporate bond exports published in The Times on Monday, figures occupancy tax and its eventual repeal, reduced corporation income taxes for small businesses and stock transfer tax relief for market-makers and specialists. [1:4.]

"I don't intend to let Secretary of State Kissinger go, because I think he's been a darn good Secretary," President Ford, while campaigning in California. [1:4-7.]

Industry and Labor

Gotbaum's study defends city wage scales. [Page 43]

Education and Welfare

College credit given for employer courses. [Page 18]

Independent Angola rebuilds school system. [Page 19]

Business and Financial

Senate panel retains capital gains rules. [Page 10]

Business operation key to Carter success. [Page 1]

South Korea's main opposition party is split. [Page 12]

Clashes in Athens leave one

dead. [Page 3]

Assembly abortion bill faces new delay. [Page 34]

Bill banning multiple listings fails in Albany. [Page 34]

Sports

Firestone reports rise in earnings. [Page 45]

Real Estate: "Speculative" building. [Page 59]

Advertiser News. [Page 54]

Grains 44

Amer. Exchange. [Page 46]

Bond Sales 46

Market Indicators. [Page 46]

Bond Records 55

Money 55

Bus. Commoditys 44

Mutual Funds 58

Corp Affairs 53

N.Y. Stock Exch. [Page 51]

Dividends 50

Out-of-Town 59

Foreign Exchange [Page 58]

Over the Counter 58

Clashes in Athens leave one

dead. [Page 3]

Lebanese wound Eddie, Christian leader. [Page 4]

Bomb at Israeli airport kills

two. [Page 5]

Independent Angola rebuilds

school system. [Page 19]

Health and Science

Biologist finds slavery among

desert ants. [Page 34]

Amusements and the Arts

City Ballet's "Workshop"

pleases. [Page 21]

Renaissance madrigals. [Page 22]

Chamber group at "Y" plays

Dvorak. [Page 22]

An evening with two walking

anachronisms. [Page 24]

Fernando Arrabal, playwright

in exile. [Page 24]

Rizzo solidifies hold on Philadelphia Democrats. [Page 11]

Carter leads Reagan in Oregon

Ford leads Reagan in Oregon

poll. [Page 14]

Kentucky-Tennessee vote

buoys Ford. [Page 14]

Yuma, Colo., is cautious

about candidates. [Page 15]

Albert Morano runs against

Senator Weicker. [Page 17]

Brooklyn Democrats pick surrogate candidate. [Page 17]

Editorials and Comment

About New York

Editorials and Letters. [Page 30]

Family/Style/Food Day

James Reston on Hubert

Humphrey's 65th. [Page 31]

C. L. Sulzberger: détenté and non-détente. [Page 31]

Harold Krents; blind but not

disabled. [Page 31]

José Zalaquet on the Junta

in Chile. [Page 31]

News Analysis

Leonard Salk discusses Swedish labor plan. [Page 45]

Tom Goldstein examines new

Nadari cases. [Page 62]

in an article on Soviet oil

exports published in The Times on Monday, figures

were mistakenly given as millions of barrels per day.

They should have read thou-

CORRECTION