

News Summary and Index

NYTimes SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1976 JUN 12 1976

The Major Events of the Day

International
 Syria and the Palestinian guerrilla movement disagreed on how to use the "sym-bolic" peacekeeping force being sent to Lebanon by the Arab League, but outright opposition to any such force was expressed by Lebanon's right-wing Christian leader, Interior Minister Camille Chamoun, who warned that the league would be responsible for "drowning Lebanon in blood." The Libyan Prime Minister, Abdel Salam Jalloud, who has taken the role of mediator in Lebanon and who was a supporter of the Syrian position, was said to be leaning toward the Palestinian view that the peacekeeping force should "replace" Syrian troops. [Page 1, Column 8.]

Syria reinforced its military occupation of the strategic Bekaa Valley area of Lebanon—where some of the toughest battles of the Lebanese civil war took place—with scores of tanks, communication camps and armed patrols at virtually every passable road leading to the main highway between Damascus and Beirut. It was estimated that Syria now has 350 to 400 tanks in Lebanon, and 12,000 troops, including soldiers stationed outside Beirut and near Saida in the south and Tripoli in the north. The scope and precision of the occupation indicated skepticism that the Lebanese war would be over soon and that Syria was prepared to stay in Lebanon indefinitely. [4-4.]

Third-world representatives who dominated the United Nations Conference on Human Settlement in Vancouver endorsed sharp restrictions on the private ownership of land and asked that land be managed as a public resource rather than a profit-generating commodity. They also called for the redistribution of land in poor countries and a more equitable share of wealth. [1:6-7.]

National

The Government's inflation-monitoring agency said that recent price increases in the steel industry appeared to be justified by higher costs. William Killley 3d, acting director of the Council on Wages and Price Stability, said both the steel industry's return on sales and its income as a proportion of equity were below 1972 levels and below the average for all manufacturers. [1:6-7.] Representative Wayne L. Hays's doctor said that according to preliminary tests

The Ohio Democrat took at least 10 times the prescribed amount of a sleeping medication that put him into a coma Thursday. Mr. Barnes came out of the coma yesterday and began what was described as a "dramatic recovery." "There is the possibility of a suicide attempt," his doctor said. [1:6-8.]

President Ford and Ronald Reagan began personal appeals for the support of the remaining Republican National Convention delegates in 11 states who are vital to the campaigns for the party's Presidential nomination. Starting in Springfield, Mo., they met separately with groups of the states' Republicans who will vote today on rival slates of 19 at-large delegates to the nominating convention in Kansas City. [1:1.]

Metropolitan

With lately won Republican support, the Legislature in Albany moved slowly toward approval of a rescue plan worked out by Democrats that would enable the City University of New York to reopen as early as Monday and to function with its state support intact for the next academic year. The compromise bill is similar to the one that the Democratic-controlled Assembly passed on Wednesday night but it deals with only the next 15 months while the Assembly bill proposed that the state increase its share of the City University budget over a three-year period. [1:5.]

Alfred Eisenpreis resigned as New York City's Economic Development Administrator. Mayor Beame's press spokesman said that the Mayor had not asked for the resignation, but other mayoral aides indicated that Mr. Beame—who has given top priority to the revitalization of the city's economy—had become increasingly disappointed with Mr. Eisenpreis's performance. [3:6-1:3.]

The State Legislature resolved a long-standing dispute over local property-tax financing by jockeying contradictory approaches to the problem—one sought by the Assembly and the other by the Senate—in a hybrid bill that even its sponsors suspect is unconstitutional. The measure says in effect that if the courts throw out one approach, the other one would take effect immediately. "Will it fly?" Albert H. Blumenthal, the Assembly majority leader, was asked before the debate began. "Well, I think it will crawl," he replied. [1:2-3.]

The Other News

- International
 Expeditions are the talk of Loch Ness. Page 2
 Refugees seized in Argentine hotel raid. Page 3
 Amin escapes assassination attempt in Kampala. Page 3
 Continued resistance in Angola is reported. Page 3
 Kissinger, in Mexico, wary of Cubans. Page 3
 Mercenaries' trial opens in Angola. Page 3
 Sadat sees chance for Lebanon accord. Page 5
 Syria spends $1 million daily on Lebanon. Page 5
 Re-education program pressed in Vietnam. Page 6
 Fiat executive running for Senate in Italy. Page 7
- Government and Politics
 Change comes to Jimmy Carter's town. Page 1
 Junior House members stage sit-in. Page 7
 Democrats begin to draft party platform. Page 8
 Carter seeking to increase minority delegates. Page 8
 G.O.P. seen needing outside aid to win. Page 9
 Senate panel votes capital gains cut. Page 9
 Multiple-use zoning approved for Tribeca. Page 21
 Buckley scores racial survey of schools. Page 38
- General
 F.B.I. agent testifies against grain concern. Page 7
 New judge assigned for Hearst case. Page 9
 Pinelun is a gift to Central Park. Page 25
 Teaneck High students study holocaust. Page 25
 Metropolitan Briefs. Page 27
 Beame and Carey soften fiscal dispute. Page 27
 Two executives found slain in midtown. Page 27
 Morgenthau ready to invest. Page 27
 Many hurt in East Harlem festival stampede. Page 27
 Hastings knew political practices in Albany. Page 35
 Housing aide denies any kickbacks. Page 35
 Reporters appeal Comite Francis ruling. Page 36

Quotation of the Day

"We ought to leave the monster alone. In this technological age, we've placed a label on everything. I am a champion of the unknown. Mystery intrigues people, and so it should remain."—The Rev. Gregory Brusey, commenting on the Loch Ness expedition. [2:4.]

Industry and Labor

Teamsters and farm union meeting secretly. Page 7
 Study says mobsters bilked teamsters here. Page 21

Education and Welfare

City U. prepares for a Monday opening. Page 21

Health and Science

New way to cool nuclear plants tested. Page 14
 Cutbacks in child health services assailed. Page 20
 Decline is reported in psycho-surgery. Page 20
 Assembly passes a medical malpractice bill. Page 36

Amusements and the Arts

"Cleopatra" and "Earnest" at Stratford. Page 12
 Villella dances in Robbins's "Watermill." Page 12
 Lynn Seymour points up "Gibson's" traditions. Page 12
 "Jackson County Jail" on local screen. Page 13
 Marshall Yeager's "Pavilion" opens in "Village." Page 13
 Henry Fonda, at 71, discusses life. Page 13
 Biography of Frank Harris reviewed. Page 21

Going Out Guide

Page 13

About New York

Page 12

Business and Financial

Page 29

Allied Chemical reports improper payments.

Page 29
 M.A.C. delays a suit against Moody's. Page 29
 Import quotas to curb steel from Japan. Page 29

Amex. Exchange	28	Gains	33
Bond Sales	32	Market Indicators	30
Commodities	33	Market Place	30
Corp. Affairs	34	Mutual Funds	19
Dividends	32	N.Y. Stock Exch.	30
Foreign Exchange	31	Out-of-Town	34
		Over the Counter	19

Sports

Purtzer and Dent lead at 136 in Charlotte golf. Page 15
 Wheelchair athletes spurred by desire. Page 15
 Yankees encounter Blyleven as a Ranger. Page 15
 Malack proving to be stopper for the Mets. Page 15
 McNeil, Stewart win doubles in French tennis. Page 15
 Mitterwald's 4 hits help Cubs rout Astros, 8-3. Page 16
 Williams withdraws from A.U. track. Page 16
 Two U.S. stock cars racing at Le Mans today. Page 16
 People in Sports: Hockey free agents "traded." Page 17
 Bold Forbes's value rising with each success. Page 18
 Monmouth draws 14,641 fans as meet opens. Page 18

Notes on People

Page 11

Editorials and Comment

Page 22

Editorials and Letters

Page 22
 C. L. Sulzberger interviews an ex-crown prince. Page 23
 Russell Baker: an unnecessary convention. Page 23
 James Fernandez visits Trenton Farmers Market. Page 23
 Robert Geroch on the cosmology of physics. Page 23

News Analysis

Page 5
 Soviet's influence in Mideast at low point. Page 5
 Paul Goldberger comments on Chicago tower. Page 14

CORRECTION
 A news article and chart in The New York Times on Wednesday gave erroneous figures on net tuition costs at the City University of New York and erred in describing which students were eligible for Federal tuition grants. A corrective article appears on Page 21.