

Says It Will Limit Subject to Executive Privilege,

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON

Special to The New York Tim

Ż

By advises sto resource of a WASHINGTON, March 27-Bipartisan leaders of a House subcommittee offered today to forgo questioning of John W. Dean 3d about the Watergate conspiracy if Mr. Dean, the White House legal courisel, would testify on the issue of executive privilege. Representatives William S: Moorhead, Democrat of Penn-sylvania, and John N. Erlen-born, Republican of Illinois, made public the text of a letter in which they urged President Nixon to allow Mr. Dean to give "limited testimony" to the Sub-committee on Foreign Opera-tions and Government Informa-tion. tion tion. Mr. Moorhead, the subcom-mittee chairman, said that Mr. Dean's testimony was "essen-tial" to consideration of a bill to restrict the use of executive privilege to deny information to Congress. Mr. Erlenborn and six other Republicans sponsored the bill.

privilege to deny to Congress. Mr. Erlenborn and six other Republicans sponsored the bill. The President has refused to allow Mr. Dean to appear be-fore either the Senate-Judiciary Committee or the Select Sen-ate committee investigating the break-in and bugging of the Democratic headquarters at the Watergate complex. Mr. Nixon contends that Mr. Dean is immune from Congressional ex-amination by virtue of his posi-tion on the White House, under growing pressure from Senate Republicans as well as Demo-crats to have Mr. Dean clarify his relationship to the Water-gate conspiracy, made no im-mediate response today to the more limited request from the House subcommittee. A White House spokesman said, "We are studying the re-quest carefully, as we study all such requests." Mr. Moorhead and Mr. Erlen-born issued copies of a study by the Library of Congress that contradicted President Nixon's statement March 12 on execu-tive privilege. The rarely in-voked-doctrine_of_executive privilege protects the confiden-tiality of communications with-in the executive branch if dis-closure-would impair the order-ly functioning of the Govern-ment. Mr. Nixon said in the formal statement that he invoked the privilege only three times in the privilege only three times in Ment. Mr. Nixon said in the formal statement that he invoked the privilege only three times in four years, but the Library of Congress report cited 19 occa-sions on which the Nixon Ad-ministration refused to give in-formation to Congressional formation to committees.

NYT 3-28-73

•

The 19 instances included four in which Mr. Nixon ex-pressly invoked the tradition of executive privilege and 15 oc-casions when documents or tes-timony were withheld without formally invoking the privilege. As the White House lawyer, Mr. Dean is responsible for de-ciding when to declare execu-tive privilege. Accordingly, Mr. Erlenborn and Mr. Moorhead said, Mr. Dean's testimony would be "of such a unique nature" that the subcommittee was willing to limit the scope of its questions. The two Congressmen stipu-lated in their letter to the Pres-ident that Mr. Dean's testimony would be limited to executive privilege and "matters related to his key role in the handling of requests for the invocation of the privilege." They also said that "no ques-tions would be put to Mr. Dean that would in any way impinge on his confidential relationship" with Mr. Nixon and that "no questions would be put to Mr. Dean that would relate to his role in the investigation of pos-sibler involvement. of White House personnel in the Water-gate incident." Mr. Erlenborn's bill would require the executive branch to answer all Congressional re-ments for information except

Mr. Erlenborn's bill would require the executive branch to answer all Congressional re-quests for information except when the President signed a formal denial under the cus-tom of executive privilege. But the measure would re-quire Administration officials, including White House aided quire Administration officials, including White House aides, to appear in person before in-voking the privilege and would limit privileged information to "policy recommendations" to the President or an agency head.