

A Costly Banner

Pasadena

Oilman Ross McCollum, perturbed at an "impeach Nixon" banner hanging from the Cal Tech library building, said yesterday he is withdrawing his offer of a

$1 million grant to the college.

"I would be just a damn fool to contribute money to the kind of institution that can't control its students," said McCollum, president of the National Oil Co., in an open letter to the Debney House, a coed student residence which erected the sign.

"There are other places I can put my money."
