

John Dean To Testify On Tuesday

Washington

Completing its questioning of Jeb Stuart Magruder yesterday, the Senate Watergate Committee scratched tentative plans to hold a public hearing Monday.

The committee's next public session will begin Tuesday, with former White House counsel John W. Dean scheduled as the witness.

A Monday session had been planned if Magruder's testimony was not completed this week but, instead of holding him over, the committee ran more than an hour beyond its usual quitting time yesterday.
