See note attached to clipping, SFChronicle, same date. "A report of Hunt visit to Dita Beard."

WASHINGTON, June 14—Charles W. Colson, former White House sepcial counsel, confirmed publicly today that he had directed E. Howard Hunt Jr. to go to Denver in March, 1972, and interview Mrs. Dita D. Beard, Washington lobbyist for the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, about her memorandum linking a promised $400,000 campaign contribution with Administration help in settling an antitrust suit.

Disclosure of that memo by Jack Anderson, the columnist, on Feb. 29, 1972, was the ocasion for the reopening of hearings by the Senate Judiciary Committee on the nomination of Richard G. nation of Richard G. Kleindienst to be Attorney General.

During the two months of hearings, high Administration officials denied that an out-of-court settlement that allowed I.T.T. to retain the Hartford Fire Insurance Company in return for divestiture of several other companies was related in any way to the I.T.T. pledge of ups to $400,000 in support for the Republican National Convention then planned for San Diego. San Diego.

'Noble Commitment' Cited

Mrs. Beard had written her superior, William R. Merriam, vice president in charge of I.T.T.'s Washington office, that "our noble commitment has gone a long way toward our negotiations on the mergerl coming out as Hal [Harold S. Geneen, I.T.T. president] wants them."

After the memo was disclosed, Mrs. Beard disapdisclosed, Mrs. Beard disappeared from sight for several days. She was discovered in a Denyer hospital under treatment for a heart attack. Later her attorney there, David Fleming, issued a statement by her that the Anderson memo was fraudulent, although some of its phrasing was identical to a memo she had actually written.

Last Feb. 8, Newsday reporter

Associated Press

Charles W. Colson, former Special Counsel to the President, before testifying to the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee yesterday.

Kleindienst firmed."

daysn She was discovered in a Denver hospital under treatment for a heart attack. Later her attorney there, David Fleming, issued a statement by her that the Anderson memo was fraudulent, although some of its phrasing was identical to a memo she had actually written.

Last Feb. 8, Newsday reported that Mr. Hunt, the Watergate conspirator, had gone to Denver under Mr. Colson's orders and interviewed Mrs. Beard. It was later reported that Mr. Hunt had appeared before Mrs. Beard in a red wig.

Today before the House Commerce Subcommittee on Investigations, Mr. Colson said under questioning that Mr. Hunt had suggested that he interview Mrs. Beard, and that he interview Mrs. Beard, and that he, Mr. Colson, had agreed to the plan.

become "central to whether be confirmed."

Mr. Colson was also questioned at length about several time on authentic. He gave as his reasons the fact that Mrs. Beard's secretary had denied typing it, that Mr. Merriam had never seen it, and that "the most incriminating" sentences were non sequiturs."

Later, Intertel, a concern of private investigators, said first that the Anderson memo had been typed on Mrs. Beard's typewriter, but that is authenticity was doubted. The Federal Bureau of Investigation and obtained the Anderson memo, which was an original copy, and stated that it had been typed on Mrs. Beard's typewriter and roughly on the

Authenticity Issue 'Central' date at the top, June 24, 1971

Mr. Colson explained that at mittee that he had seen the the time a task force investi-copy given by the Senate comgating the Beard memo had be mittee to the F.B.I., and that come suspicious that the An-John W. Dean 3d, the White derson version was "not au-House: counsel, had shown it thentic."

The question of authenticity how Mr. Dean had obtained it, "had become critical for the but added that Mr. Dean was Administration," Mr. Colson White House "liaison with the said, because the memor had F.B.I."

Other Memos Discussed Mr. Colson was also questioned at least the last table and the subcome.

resigned, to get him to name king Mallory as S.E.C. general counsel. Mr. Morin proposed that they solicit influence from that they solicit influence from Mr. Ehrlichman, Kenneth Cole, his deputy, and Jerry Jones, a White House aide in charge of recruiting for top Administration posts.

"This is one of the chips we really should pick up because

"This is one of the chips we really should pick up, because it is a key job in the commission and one of extreme importance to us in representing our clients," Mr. Morin had written ten.

ten.
Today Mr. Morin told the subcommittee that the memo was "a silly document" dictated "off the top of my head." He said that he had no idea of "placing" a general counsel at the S.E.C. who would be beholden to the firm, and that he was simply concerned to get Mr. Mallory in the post because of his qualifications for dealing with "antitrust problems" before the S.E.C.

"I never heard the expresfore the S.E.C.

"I never heard the expression 'pick up the chips," Mr. Morin said.

"I am known for my colorful language," he said. "I guess I am pretty naive about politics and the language of politics. Perhaps this is the result of the fact that I come from Boston."

Mr. Colson said that neither he nor Mr. Cashen ever, did anything about the memogral-though Mr. Colson acknowledged that he had written a note on the memo to Mr. Cashen saying: "I'll call Cook if necessary, but I think Jerry Jones could lock this one for us."