The elegant seclusion of Harbor Island is a long way from Washington and the Watergate turmoil.

But for H.R. Haldeman, the controversy is as close as his television set.

Haldeman, President Nixon's former chief of staff, who has returned to California with his family to spend the summer in a rented $800,000 bayfront home, is watching the Senate Watergate hearings, catching up on his rest and enjoying the sun.

"I've been out sailing every day. I've been over to the store. I've been to the barber shop and I've taken long walks," he said.
