EHRlichMAN WORDS
LAI D TO KLEINDIENST

In yesterday's New York Times, the transcript of a telephone conversation of March 28 between Richard G. Kleindienst, the former Attorney General, and John D. Ehrlichman, the President's former adviser on domestic affairs, contained remarks attributed to Mr. Kleindienst that were actually made by Mr. Ehrlichman. The passage follows:

"O.K. Now, the President said for me to say this to you: That the best information he had and has is that neither Dean nor Haldeman nor Colson nor I nor anybody in the White House had any prior knowledge of this burglary. He said that he's counting on you to provide him with any information to the contrary if it ever turns up and you just contact him direct. Now as far as the committee to re-elect is concerned, he said that serious questions are being raised with regard to Mitchell, and he would likewise want you to communicate to him any evidence or inferences from evidence on that subject."
