

Long before Watergate rocked the nation
there was...

THE PLOT TO SEIZE THE WHITE HOUSE

Jules Archer

The year was 1933. FDR was President. An arch-conservative group backed by Wall Street dollars approached Major General Smedley Darlington Butler, 35-year Marine Corps veteran, two-time recipient of the Medal of Honor, and one of the most remarkable figures in American history. Their stated purpose: to organize a veterans' demonstration against Roosevelt's silver standard. Their actual intent: to form an army that could, in ten days' time, take over the White House and turn FDR into a fascist puppet.

"General Butler's sensational testimony was either ignored or ridiculed by the national press — reporter George Seldes to whom the book is dedicated has called it 'one of the most reprehensible conspiracies of silence in the long (and disgraceful) history of American journalism.'... We owe a debt of historical perspective to Jules Archer for his careful reconstruction in these days of the Watergate."
