

from column by Betty Beale:

^ ^ ^
Julie Eisenhower has had her say. According to a White House spokesman she will do no more speech making.

Nor will she appear on TV again in defense of her father's position in the Watergate mess. It isn't that Julie has lost any enthusiasm in defending her father, it's just that "she feels she has said all she can say."

While the President was in the hospital, Pat Nixon spent quite a bit of time with the young Eisenhowers in the house they rent from Bebe Rebozo. The First Lady stayed all afternoon with Julie last Saturday and Sunday after first visiting her husband. Before that both Nixons were slipping out there frequently to enjoy the privacy of home — not mansion — living. Pat, who's big on gardening, has helped Julie plant flowers and tomatoes.

★ ★ ★