

Haldeman's Free Ride

Washington

John J. Wilson, H. R. Haldeman's lawyer, said yesterday that his client was stopped for speeding recently in California but was released without a ticket by a sympathetic police officer.

"You're in enough trouble. I won't give you a ticket," Wilson quoted the policeman as saying.

Haldeman, former White House chief of staff, is now in Washington preparing for his testimony before the Senate Watergate committee.

United Press
