San Clemente

President Nixon will return to Washington tomorrow after a 12-day California stay, the White House announced yesterday.

He and his family will spend Labor Day weekend at Camp David, Md., in the Catoctin mountains.

The remainder of Mr. Nixon's stay in San Clemente will be low-key, with no public appearances and no major policy announcements planned, spokesmen said.

Mr. Nixon was described as working on economy, energy and legislative matters, none of which was spelled out by his spokesmen.
