

Agnew Expects to Be Indicted, Time Says

New York

Time magazine reported in its edition published yesterday that it has been informed by a "friend and adviser" of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew that Agnew told President Nixon he expects to be indicted by the Baltimore grand jury.

The weekly news magazine said Agnew's "friend" said Agnew had been so advised by his lawyers and he passed the information on to Mr. Nixon at their meeting September 1.

Time added, however, that equally reliable "sources close to the case" gave a conflicting version of the Nixon-Agnew meeting.

The first version said Agnew would fight indictment on constitutional grounds, claiming he cannot be indicted while in office; the second said he "would not take refuge behind any constitutional claim."

Both versions said Mr. Nixon and Agnew discussed, and rejected, the possibility of Agnew's resignation.

Both versions also contradicted official spokesmen for both the President and vice president who have called the meeting routine and denied that a resignation was even discussed.

Agnew is under investigation in an alleged kickback scheme involving contractors and builders during his terms as Baltimore county executive and as governor of Maryland.
