

DALLAS—A federal judge recessed a hearing to determine whether President Nixon's campaign organization manipulated a 1971 Texas stock fraud investigation for political gain, but indicated he believes there is no such evidence.

U.S. District Court Judge W. M. Taylor Jr. gave attorneys until Oct. 16 to file written arguments, after which he will make a formal ruling.

Six Texas defendants, including a former state attorney general, Waggoner Carr, are seeking dismissal of securities and mail fraud charges against them. They contend their indictments were politically inspired by the Nixon re-election committee to embarrass Texas Democratic Party leaders and help Mr. Nixon win the 1972 election.
