

The Other One Who Resigned

When Spiro T. Agnew resigned yesterday he became the second vice president in U.S. history to resign from office.

The first was John C. Calhoun (above, who resigned in 1832).

However, the circumstances were in no way similar. Calhoun resigned in the closing months of the Andrew Jackson administration to claim a Senate seat he had won in South Carolina.