

Financier Vesco Is Indicted Again

New York

Robert L. Vesco has been secretly indicted by a federal grand jury here, the second time the panel has handed down a sealed charge against the fugitive financier.

Vesco, who has not been seen in this country since February, failed to appear for arraignment after the federal indictment and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

The latest indictment accuses Vesco, the former chairman of International Controls Corp., of using $50,000 in ICC funds as part payment for a block of stock in Investors Overseas Services, Ltd., the Swiss financial complex he is accused of looting.

The indictment was believed sought in a new effort to have Vesco extradited from the Bahamas.

Vesco was indicted on May 10 on charges of making a secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's reelection campaign in return for an attempt to thwart a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of his activities.

Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans and New Jersey Republican leader Harry L. Sears were also indicted in the case.
