

Innocent Plea in Extortion

Baltimore

Dale Anderson, who succeeded former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as chief executive of Baltimore county in 1966, pleaded innocent yesterday to a 43-count federal indictment charging him with extortion and income tax evasion.

Anderson is charged with extorting $46,400 from contractors and with evading more than $67,000 in federal income taxes.

Anderson pleaded innocent earlier to a 39-count indictment, but was required to return to court for a second plea after the same federal grand jury returned a new indictment including the original 39 counts and four additional counts of income tax evasion.
