

Leisure Time

AP Wirephotos

William Ruckelshaus, who was fired as deputy attorney general by President Nixon, yesterday showed one the the blue fish he caught Sunday on Chesapeake Bay. His erstwhile boss, former Attorney General Elliot Richardson, and his wife relaxed yesterday afternoon by going to the tennis court. Richardson, who resigned his post Saturday night, was carrying a push broom in his left hand, presumably for cleaning leaves off the tennis court.