

President Nixon accepts the album "Thank You, Mr. President" from country singing star Tex Ritter, left.

Sing Along With the President

By Don Shirley

An album of President Nixon's speeches narrated by country singer Tex Ritter was presented to the President in a White House ceremony yesterday.

"Your words are echoed in our songs," said Ritter as he presented Mr. Nixon with one of only two copies of the album, called "Thank You, Mr. President," prod-uced by the Country Music Association (CMA). The other copy of the album will be kept at the Country Mu-sic Hall of Fame in Nash-ville.

Excerpts from the President's speeches are inter-spersed with country music hits which express "the hits which express " same ideas as yo speeches," said Ritter. Asked for examples, your a CMA spokesman said Lor-etta Lynn's 'Coal Miner's Daughter" was juxtaposed Daughter" was juxtaposed with a speech in which the President praised "people who work with their hands." "Battle of New Orleans," said the spokesman, was paired with "the President's speeches about war and peace."

In his presentation, Ritter cited two contributions President Nixon has made to the country music industry: the designation each year for the past four years of Octo-ber as Country Music ber as Country Music Month, and invitations to country musicians to per-form at the White House. Ritter later noted that country stars Johnny Cash, Merle Haggard, Glen Campbell and Danny Davis have performed at the White House during Mr. Nixon's presidency.

Replying to Ritter, Mr. Nixon said Country music has captured America" and "expanded all over the world." It is, the President said, "an international lan-guage."

Ritter reported after the ceremony that the President told him, "Country music is not only exciting but it's clean."