WXPOSE JAN 3 1974 Re-Audit OF Nixon The President's attorneys have estimated that Mr. Nixon could owe as much as $267,000 in back taxes if the deductions be claimed are disallowed. Taxes Set IRS, in Rare

Move, Tells of New Inquiry

By William Claiborne Washington Post Staff Writer

The Internal Revenue Service said yesterday it has begun a new audit of President Nixon's recent tax returns to determine the legality of some deductions claimed during the President's White House tenure.

The IRS did not say what years will be covered by the new audit, but there has been particular controversy over Mr. Nixon's returns for 1970, 1971 and 1972. During those years, he paid taxes of $5,979 on a total income of more than $800,000, or approxithan $800,000, or approxi-mately the equivalent of taxes paid by a person earning $17,-000 a year.

The agency's announcement confirmed a Dec. 20 report in The Washington Post that the IRS, which last June said that the President's returns were correct, had reopened its audit and was interviewing partici-pants of some of Mr. Nixon's financial transactions.

An IRS spokesman said yesterday that the agency could recover past taxes due for all three of those years, but that the statute of limitations has expired for levies due from previous years. There is no statute of limitations for col-

Moreover, independent tax accountants who have examined the President's returns have said he apparently un-derpaid his taxes during his first four years in office by more than $13,000 because his accountants entered business deductions on the wrong line of the returns.

In a one-paragraph statement, the IRS said it was conducting the audit because of 'questions raised in the press as to the relationship of the consideration of the Presi-dent's tax returns by the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation and any consid-eration of the returns by the Internal Revenue Service."

On Dec. 8, the same day he released a mass of financial data and made public his tax returns for 1969 through 1972, Mr. Nixon asked the joint congressional committee to examine his returns and report on the legality of his deductions. He told the committee chair-man, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.), that he would abide by the committee's ruling. Yesterday's announcement by the JRS use outroordinary by the IRS was extraordinary because the agency traditionally refuses even to disclose that a tax examination is under way for a specific individ-ual. An IRS spokesman said the announcement was unprecedented.

However, the IRS said it had been "authorized by the President's representatives to make the disclosure, and added that the White House staff was "cooperating fully"

See IRS, A6, Col. 1

IRS, From A1

with federal tax officials and the staff of the joint congressional committee.

An IRS spokesman said arrangements were being made arbiter of the controversy surto exchange information with the joint congressional com- two major deductions. mittee.

The IRS declined to say why to a question, an "agency whether the commitment was spokesman said that a long-made before a new law prohibstanding policy permits the re- iting such deductions took efexamination of previously fect on July 25, 1969. closed cases if any one of The second concer three conditions apply. They are:

sentation of fact.

would be a serious administra-tive omission."

The IRS declined to sav which of the three conditions prompted the new audit of Mr. Nixon's returns, but an agency steps to donate the California source observed that the third estate to the federal govern-apply. White House deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren, who was in San Clemente with who was in San Clemente with Mr. Nixon yesterday, also de-the two areas the President clined to specify which tax re-mentioned. turns were being re-examined, but he indicated they were dent for taking the vice presilimited to the years since the dential papers deduction.

President was inaugurated in 1969.

When the President assigned the joint congressional committee to be, in effect, an rounding his tax returns, he suggested that it investigate

The first was a $576,000 write-off for a gift of his vice The IRS declined to say why presidential papers to the Na-it was re-auditing the Presi-tional Archives, over which dent's returns, but in response there have been questions

The second concerns savings Mr. Nixon realized by not paying capital gains taxes on prof-• Evidence of fraud, malfea-sance, collusion or misrepre-property from his San Clemente estate.

sentation of fact.
The previous closing of the books involved a clearly defined error based on IRS erty at San Clemente, but later sold all but 5.9 acres to two close friends, Robert Ab-planalp and C.G. (Bebe) Re-bozo. No cash changed hands ure to re-open it (the case) would be a serious administra-but Abplanalp wrote off the but Abplanalp wrote off the $625,000 he had loaned Mr. Nixon to purchase the land.

provision is broad enough to ment after his death and the apply.