Moorer - "Radford Contends Moorer Knew About His Snooping." Radford says he has much specific information about Moorer's involvement which he will tell the Senate.

"As chairman of the joint chiefs, Admiral Moorer is a statutory member of the National Security Council and is entitled to see all of its working papers and documents. Well-informed sources have told [the NYT], however, that the documents pilfered by Yeoman Radford were not official council material, but included private reports and memorandums that were intended solely for President Nixon and key White House aides."
