Would-Be Hijacker Killed After Slaying 2 at Airport

By RICHARD WITKIN

pilot of a Delta Air Lines jet since the start of the Governyesterday while trying to hijack ment-ordered procedure requirthe plane at Baltimore-Wash- ing all passengers in this counington International Airport.

was carrying a gasoline incen- The dead gunman W18 identidiary device, was himself shot fied by the Federal Bureau of to death through a plane win- Investigation as Samuel Joseph dow by another policeman. The Byck, born 44 years ago in pilot of the twin-jet DC-9 was Philadelphia. There was no im, seriously wounded.

A gunman fatally shot an hijack a United States airliner airport policeman and the co- in the more than 13 months gton International Airport. try to be screened by electronic The 250-pound assailant, who weapons detectors.

mediate clue to whether his mo-It was the first attempt to tives were purely personal, or whether he might have been carrying out some type of political scheme. The incendiary device he carried in a briefcase was disarmed later at the airport by an Army disposal team summoned from nearby Fort Meade. It consisted of two gallons of gasoline in plastic containers wired to a "destructing" mechanism.

"It would have done the job, it would sengers walked past it. have destroyed the plane to Mr. Byck, doubling t the best of my knowledge;" said the F.B.I. investigator in charge, Thomas H. Farrow of the Baltimore office.

8 Passengers on Board Eight passengers who had boarded the plane before the burly gunman dashed across the loading bridge from the terminal gate were unhurt in the exchange of fire. But a stewardess hurt her back jumping to the ground through an escape hatch.

The sequence of events began shortly before 7 A.M. as Delta's Flight 5223 was beginning to load passengers for a trip to Atlanta and Columbus, Ga. As related by the Federal Bureau of Invtsigation and spokesmen for Delta and the airport, formerly known as Friendship, her is what apparently happened:

The would-be hijacker walked down the long airport con-course past the ticket counter and holding area where the first of 49 passengers holding reservations were beginning to board for a scheduled 7:15 departure. An airport policeman, George N. Ramsburg of How-ard County, Md., was monitorvery definitely ing the magnetometer as pas-

> Mr. Byck, doubling back to in Continued on Page 49, Column 1

Continued From Page 1, Col. 5

the boarding area, managed to get behind Mr. Ramsburg and shot him fatally in the head with a .22-caliber revolver. Then he dashed onto the plane, circumventing the screening by using an aisle reserved normally for passengers coming off planes.

The sounds of the firing and creams of "he's been shot" screams of

Associated Press Fred Jones, co-pilot, was killed in plane by man who tried to hijack.

alerted Charles Troyer, an Anne Arundel County police-man who was monitoring a magnetmeter at a gate about 75 feet away. He pursued the hijacker, firing a shot. But the hijacker, succeeded in getting aboard and having two stew-ardesses close the door before Officer Troyer could get to him. On the plane, the F.B.I. agent told newsmen, Mr. Byck pulled a gun from inside his coat, coat, shouted "get back," went to the cockpit, and ordered the two pilots to "fly this plane out of here." When told that the plane could not take off, the gunman fired some warn-ing shots. Then he grabbed a woman passenger and returned with her to the cockpit. It was evidently at this with her to the cockpit. It was evidently at this juncture that the gunman first shot the pilot, Reese Douglas Loftin of Fort Worth, Tex., and the co-pilot, Fred Jones of Then the Dallas. gunman brought the woman back to her seat, forced another woman passenger to accompany him to the cockpit, and again shot the two pilots.

Gunman Is Slain The shooting was finally ended when Officer Troyer fired four shots through a cabin window killing the gunman. Officer Troyer later told air-port officials that after the cabin door closed he had ini-tially descended to ground level tially descended to ground level and tried to shoot out the plane's tires. But his .38-calibre plane's tires. But his .38-calibre special would not do the job. So he raced back to the terminal to retrieve a more powerful .357-magnum gun from the body of his dead col-league and then was able to shoot out two tires. Finally he sped back to the cabin door-way and then shot the hijacker through a window. First officer Jones, the co-pilot, died during surgery at University Hospital. Captain Loftin was listed in serious condition. condition.

It was not certain at what precise point Officer Troyer shot out the tires. According to the account he gave Melvin Mallonee of the Maryland Avia-tion Administration, it was shortly after he first heard shots being fired aboard the plane.

Diane. Oddly, it was at the same airport, situated eight miles south of Baltimore and about 25 miles north of Washington, that the last attempted hijacking took place in this country.

The New York Times/Feb. 23, 1974

That was on Jan. 2, 1973. The last successful hijacking in the United States took place the previous November when three gunmen took a Southern Air-ways jet on a harrowing nine-stop 29-hour flight that ended in Cuba.

In Cuba. In the scores of airliner hi-jackings that have taken place in this country, only one crew member had been killed previ-ously. Others killed included a ticket agent, three passengers and six hijackers.