Thirteen persons qualified yesterday as potential jurors in the conspiracy trial of former Nixon cabinet members John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans, and U.S. District Judge Lee P. Gagliardi said. "We might very well have the pool selected by mid-afternoon" today.

In six days, 26 women and 25 men have been chosen as candidates for the ultimate panel of 12 jurors and six alternates.

Because of the accelerated pace, it was possible that the actual jury could be sworn by tomorrow.
