[About 8 inches at end of this story, apparently misplaced, has been appended to Wiretap Data story of same date on MAR 23 1974 same page 14]

NYTimes

THE NEW YORK TIMES, SATURDAY, MARCH 23, 1974

peals Court Sends Evidence on Nixon Back to Sirica

MAR-23 1974 By ANTHONY RIPLEY ial to The New York Time WASHINGTON, March 22-

The Watergate grand jury's secret report on President Nixon, locked in its briefcase, was carried back today from the Court of Appeals to Federal District Judge John J. Sirica's chambers to be ready Monday for delivery to the House of Representatives.

Although there was still some time for an appeal to the United States Supreme Court to keep the report from going to House impeachment investigators, it appeared unlikely that such action would be taken.

tion would be taken. The briefcase, cantaining evi-dence and an index of events bearing on Mr. Nixon's actions during the White House cover-up of the Watergate burglary, had gone late yesterday to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia for the District of Columbia Circuit.

Judge Sirica had ordered the report turned over to the House, and the Court of Appeals upheld his decision yesterday, then returned the briefcase at then returned the briefcase at 11:15 A.M. today. The final hour for any ap-peal is 5 P.M. Monday. Decision Due on Subpoena The transfer of the evidence and the report to the House had been fought by lawyers for two of the seven men indicted Wardh 1 for conspiracy in the March 1 for conspiracy in the cover up of the burglary of the Democratic national headquart-ers in the Watergate office building. They expressed fear that information might leak out until Monday to decide what out or be used by House inves-tigators in such a way as to the President on March 15 for tigators in such a way as to the President on March 15 for stir up prejudicial pretrial pub-licity about their clients. The President has not op-secret report, a position that both Judge Sirica and the Court of Appeals noted with some emphasis in their decisions.

The White House also has

United Press International Rose Mary Woods, President Nixon's personal secretary, on her way to appear before the Watergate committee.

It is unclear whether Mr. Nixon himself was aware that the wiretap was producing po-litical intelligence on Mr. Muskie. However, a measure of Mr. Nixon's awareness of the Mr. Nixon's awareness of the sensiti vity of some of the wiretap reports is indicated by one F.B.I. document made available o The Times. The document is a report of a field interview with Robert C. a field interview with Robert C. Mardian, a former Assistant At-torney General who, at Mr. Nixon's insistence, played a central role in removing the records of the Halperin and other wiretaps from the bureau's files to the White House.

House. Sometime in July, 1971, Mr. Mardian recalled, he was sum-moned by William C. Sullivan, who had been in charge of the bureau's end of the wiretap program. Mr. Mardian recalled that Mr. Sullivan told him of information he wanted to turn over to the President because he believed Mr. Hoover could not be trusted to preserve its confidentiality. At San Clemente

At San Clemente

At San Clemente Mr. Mardian said that he passed on the information and was summoned to San Clemen-te, Calif., whre Mr. Nixon or-dered him to retrieve the rec-ords from Mr. Sullivan, take them to the White House, and compare them with the copies filed there to make certain that none of the documents re-mained in the bureau's posses-sion.

Mardian said that he Mr. Mardian said that he obtained the records and de-livered them to Mr. Kissinger and Gene Alexander M. Haig Jr., then Mr. Kissinger's and Gene Alexander M. Haig Jr., then Mr. Kissinger's assistant. He and Mr. Kissinger checked the originals against the copies of the early sum-maries in Mr. Kissinger's files Mr. Mardian said, and a simi-lar check was made with the later summaries in Mr. Halde-man's files man's files.

man's files. Mr. Mardian recalled that he then took the material into the Oval Room of the White House and left it there, but he would not say with whom. "Did you give the bag to Mr. Nixon, the President of the United States?" Mr. Mar-dian was asked by the F.B.I. agents.

agents.

The interview report relates that Mr. Mardian "sat back in his chair, shrugged his ehould-ers, hesitated and said," rean-not answer that question.""