Nixon Aide Testifies on Damaged Tape

Washington

Presidential aide Stephen B. Bull, one of five persons who handled a damaged Watergate tape, was questioned for a second time yesterday by a grand jury investigating whether criminal acts were involved in the 18 minute erasure.

Emerging after a 4½-hour session before the grand jury, Bull said he considers himself "an important witness" in the case. But he hedged on whether he was warned that he is now a target of the investigation.
