

White House

Reference

Book

Washington

Charles W. Colson told the House Judiciary Committee every time there was a major crisis in the White House, President Nixon told his staff to read his book "Six Crises," a committee member reported.

"Colson said he read it 14 times," Representative Robert F. Drinan (Dem-Mass.) said of the book. Mr. Nixon wrote after losing the 1960 presidential race to John F. Kennedy.

United Press
