

NIXON IS CONFIDENT.
PRESS AIDE ASSERTS

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif., July 26 (UPI)—President Nixon is confident that he will be vindicated when the full House of Representatives considers the articles of impeachment the Judiciary Committee has written against him, a White House spokesman said today.

"Our belief is that the House will not vote out a bill of impeachment," the deputy press secretary, Gerald L. Warren, said.

He made it clear that Mr. Nixon was virtually resigned to the likelihood that the panel would recommend impeachment with the support of perhaps as many as six or seven Republican members.

Mr. Warren said that Mr. Nixon was not watching any of the Judiciary Committee proceedings on television but was receiving periodic reports.

The President "feels fine," Mr. Warren said. "I would characterize his mood as confident."

Mr. Warren indicated that the President was devoting as little time as necessary to the impeachment matter and relying on aides, particularly his chief of staff, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., to keep him posted on developments in Washington while he worked at his residence and nearby office.
