In Washington yesterday, M. Caldwell Butler said he thought 60 House Republicans would vote against President Nixon. The Virginia Republican was one of six Republicans to vote for the first impeachment article.

Javits Vote on Nixon To Await Evidence

NYTimes JUL 29 1974

Senator Jacob K. Javits refused to be pinned down yesterday on how he would vote in a Senate trial of President Nixon.

Appearing on WCBS-TV's "Newsmakers" program, the New York Republican said that he would cast his ballot "in accord with the evidence."

The Senator reiterated his belief that the President should not resign. Last March, when James L. Buckley, the Conservative-Republican Senator from New York, urged Mr. Nixon to resign, Mr. Javits disagreed. Mr. Javits, warm in his praise of the House Judiciary Committee's conduct, described the proceedings as "nonpartisan" and said that all the members had "comported themselves well."
