MIAMI, Aug. 18—E. Howard Hunt Jr. said today that, as far as he knew, the seven myste-rious cartons stored in his White House office after the Watergate break-in in June, 1972, contained hundreds of copies of a book-length criti-cism of television news report-ing but no information concerning but no information concern-ing former Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

More Hunt, one of the seven men who pleaded guilty or were convicted in the original Water-gate break-in case and who is now a Miami resident, termed a "total absurdity" recent reports that the boxes had contained evidence that Mr. Rockefeller, who is under considera-tion for the Vice-Presidential nomination, had financed dem-onstrations at the Democratic National Convention here in 1972.

1972. The White House charged yesterday that the "tip" con-cerning theapparently non ex-istent documents, which re-portedly came to its attention a week ago, was a hoax de-signed "to discredit Mr. Rocke-feller and thereby attempt to remove him from considera-tion" for the Vice-Presidency. ered the attair "deplorable." In an interview, Mr. Hunt, who is free pending an appeal of his conviction in the Water-gate matter, recalled that in the fall of 1971 he was ap-proached by a woman assist-ant to Charles W. Colson, then a special counsel to former President Richard M. Nixon. He said the woman had

President Richard M. Nixon. He said the woman had asked Mr. Hunt, then a mem-ber of the White House's spe-cial investigations unit known as the "plumbers," whether she might store seven bulky car-tons in his quarters in the Executive Office Building, next door to the White House. Mr. Hunt said that he had agreed, and that the cartons were moved into his office, which contained only a desk and a small, two-drawer safe. Five of the seven cartons, and a small, two-drawer safe. Five of the seven cartons, all bearing the name of a book-publishing house, were sealed, Mr. Hunt said, but the two others contained copies of a book by Edith Efron, a televi-sion critic, entitled "The News Twisters."

Mr. Hunt said that he had left the cartons untouched, and that they were still in place when he made his last visit to the office on June 19, 1972, two days after the unsuccess-ful break-in attempt at the Democratic party's Watergate offices. He said he had no idea whatever became of them.

Five Sealed Cartons The former Central Intelli-gence Agency operative con-ceded that the five closed cartons, which he said appear to have been sealed by the publisher of Miss Efron's book, might have unbeknownst to publisher of MISS Erron's book, might have, unbeknownst to him, contained some other ma-terials of which "I was an in-nocent holder."

nocent holder." But he dismissed the possi-bility as "ridiculous," in view of his close association with Mr. Colson, a fellow Brown Uni-versity alumnus, and also the sensitive nature of his tasks as a member of the White House plumbers. Information made available plumbers. Information made available last summer to the Senate Watergate committee about campaign "dirty tricks" in-cluded testimony that Mr. Col-son had appropriated $8,000 in funds belonging to the Com-mittee for the Re-election of the President to purchase quan-tities of the Efron book. The book contended that television news reporting was sometimes news reporting was sometimes distorted, a public position then favored by the White House, with the intention of putting the volume onto the best-seller lists. The Colson effort was unsuccessful.

Conflicting Versions

Committee sources recalled

Committee sources recalled today, however, that they had been told at least two conflict-ing versions about what oc-curred thereafter, first that Mr. materials, and then that he had shipped them out of Washing-ton by way of the Railway Ex-press Agency. One Senate investigator said that Mr. Sheppard's account had never been corroborated by the committee staff, which, among other things, determined that the sign-in book from the Executive Office Building for the period in question did not bear any indication that Mr. Sheppard had ever been a visi-tor there. The source said that Mr.

The source added that the Watergate com-mittee, which conducted an ex-tensive inquiry into campaign sabotage and plans for demon-strations at the Democratic convention, had never come across Mr. Rockefel'er's name in any context. The safe did contain sensitive documents, Mr. Hunt said, but nothing relating even indirectly to Mr. Rockefeller. Those items, nothing relating even indirectly to Mr. Rockefeller. Those items, which included reports on an investigation of Senator Edward M. Kennedy and the Interna-tional Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, falsified "diplo-matic cables" and two personal telephone registers, were re-moved later in the week after the Watergate break-in by John W. Dean 3d, then the White House counsel. Some of the documents were given to L. Patrick Gray 3d, at the time the acting director of the Federal Bureau of Inves-tigation, who later destroyed them. Mr. Dean reportedly dis-posed of two notebooks. The apparently erroneous tip regarding the "Rockefeller papers" was provided last Sun-day to Philip W. Buchen, the new White House counsel, by Hamilton A. Long, a retired Wall Street lawyer who for-merly headed a conservative Philadelphia publishing com-pany, the American Heritage Education Corporation. Mr. Long, who was described by Mr. Buchen today as about 70 years of age, has written a c number of conservative tracts, including one, published in the
