Newspaper Revises Presidential Slogan

YORBA LINDA, Calif. Aug. 23 (AP)—Publisher Ed Kelly of the Yorba Linda Star, caught up in a public fuss over his newspaper's slogan, has come to a compromise.

Kelly said he received hundreds of complaints after announcing that he was removing the previous slogan, "The Birthplace of President Nixon," from the newspaper.

"A lot of the comments were pretty objective, and brought up a good point," Kelly said. "They felt that we were putting down the community as well as Nixon."

So after considering the matter, Kelly came up with a compromise slogan: "Birthplace of our 37th President."
