House Panel Seeks to Cut Over Half of Nixon Funds

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON Special to The New York Times

House subcommittee today to bar the use of Federal two-hour meeting. funds to lease a storage vault in California for Watergate tape first step in an appropriation recordings and other documents process that Mr. Steed said and to reduce drastically a could result in an even lower budget request for former Pres- budget for Mr. Nixon, was the ident Richard M. Nixon's transi- most visible symbol of, Congress tion tó private citizen.

Treasury, Postal Service and President's resignation and the General Government Appropria- pardon granted to him nine tions voted unanimously to cut days ago by President Ford. from President Ford's special In the Senate, the Gove budget request a $110,000 item ment Operations Committee to provide for a storage vault was preparing to draft legislafor the tapes and Mr. Nixon's tion Thursday Presidential records.

to cut by more than half-from cordings and documents for use $850,000 to $398,000-the total by Congress, the courts and the amount for the former Presi-public, despite an agreement dent's pension, staff and office that would give Mr. Nixon expenses through next June. eventual control of the mate-All six opponents of the com- rial. promise figure wanted to reduce the total even more dras-nel of the Judiciary Committee tically.

as I did," the subcommittee chairman, Representative Tom Continueá on Page 27, Column 3

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17-A Steed, Democrat of Oklahoma, voted told reporters after the closed,

The subcommittee action, the trying to grapple with issues The House Subcommittee on left dangling by the former

In the Senate, the Governthat ' would require President Ford to pre-The committee voted 7 to 6 serve the Watergate tape re-

Elsewhere in the House, a pawas scheduled to begin hear-"I was surprised that I got ings next Tuesday on a number out of committee with as much of related proposals, including constitutional amendments that would give Congress a veto over Presidential pardons and resolutions that would reflect dissatisfaction with Mr. Ford's pardon of his predecessor.

Continued From Page 1, Col. 7

'Pardon Thing' Involved

The appropriation for Mr. Nixon would not have encountered so much difficulty, Mr. Steed said, "if it hadn't been for this pardon thing."

He said that the subcommittee would have voted to ban the use of government money to transfer any of Mr. Nixon's White House materials to, or near, his home in San Clemente, Calif., had it not been for the likelihood that the full House would object on technical grounds to substantive legislation in an appropriations measure.

Mr. Steed added, however, that a report to accompany the appropriations bill would make clear that the subcommittee "took a very strong view" against the agreement under which Mr. Ford was guaran-teed, in essence, ownership rights to the tapes and documents.

cuments. A subcommittee majority, consisting of five Republicans and two Democrats—Mr. Steed and Representative George Ma-hon of Texas, the chairman of the full Appropriations Com-mittee—narrowly defeated a substitute measure that would have pared the total appropria-tion to $200.000. tion to $200,000. Representative Tom Bevill, Democrat of Alabama, who of-fered the substitute, said later that he would have preferred to limit the amount to the $55,000 allotted for Mr. Nixon's pension for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30.

If it should develop later that more funds are warranted for the former President's use, Mr. Bevill said, there will be time to appropriate them. Mr. Steed attributed the subcommittee's attitude the sub-committee's attitude to public opposition to the $850,000 sought for Mr. Nixon and the timing of the request, shortly before the 1974 Congressional elections elections.

The subcommittee chairman smiled and said that Represen-tative Howard W. Robinson, Republican of upstate New York, who is retiring from Con-gress, and Mr. Steed, who has no opponent in the Nov. 5 elec-tion, "were the only two com-fortable people in the room" when the budget was trimmed. No Support for Vault

The request for $110,000 to store the tapes and documents in a General Services Adminis-tration vault near Mr. Nixon's San Clemente estate had no supporters in the subcommittee. "I couldn't see recommending "Solution of the set of the second sec tee. "I couldn't see recommending $110,000 for a vault and $50,-000 a year for guards to pre-serve papers and tapes there was not assurances we'd ever get the public benefit of," Mr. Steed said. The full Appropriations Com-mittee will take up the Nixon budge request next Tuesday, and Mr. Mahon said that it would probably go to the full House the following Friday or Monday before being sent on the Senate. Members of a Senate appro-priating subcommittee, who priating subcommittee, who have already begun hearings on the measure, have given com-parable public notice that the $850,000 request would be cut sharply.