40

Jury Hears Tape of Nixon Urging Aides to 'Stonewall'

Balking of Watergate Inquiry Advised in March, 1973, Meeting With Mitchell -Defense Objects to Recording

> OCT 2 2 1974 By LESLEY OELSNER

NYTimes Special to The New York Time defense counsel, the jury in the Watergate case heard tothe watergate case heard to-day the tape recording in which Richard M. Nixon said he wanted his aides to "stonewall it"—plead the Fifth Amend-ment, cover-up or anything else, if it'll save it—save the plan." Mr. Nixon meda if else, if it'll save it—save the plan." Mr. Nixon made the remark on March 22, 1973, to John N. Mitchell, his former Attorney General and re-election cam-paign director and now one of the five defendants on trial. Mr. Mitchell's chief attorney, William G. Hundley, told Judge John J. Sirica repeatedly in United States District Court to-day that should the tape not be played unless either Mr. Nixon identified the tape or the prose-cution presented certain proof of the tape's authenticity. He cited a legal memorandum su-mitted by the prosecution one month ago on admissibility of tapes to back his point. Identification by Dean

Identification by Dean

But James F. Neal, the assis-But James F. Neal, the assis-tant special prosecutor in charge of the case, told Judge Sirica that additional legal re-search indicated that, in this case at least, it was sufficient for the tape to be identified by John W. Dean 3d, the Presiden-tial counsel who had been pre-sent at an earlier portion of the March 22 meeting. The statements made in that

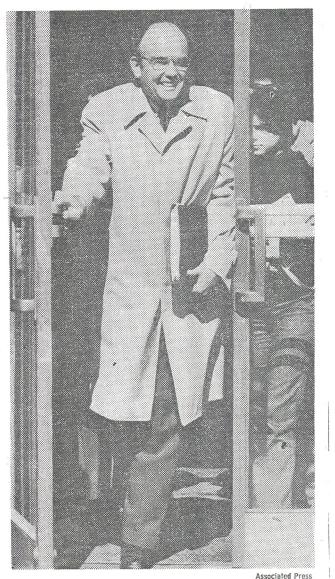

The statements made in that memorandum, Mr. Neal said, borrowing one of the more no-table phrases of the Watergate scandal, "are no longer opera-tive."

And Judge Sirica, who has pverruled a variety of other de-fense objections to the tapes in-troduced so far at the trial, turned Mr. Hundley down. The jury also heard another tape today, of a conversation on the afternoon of March 21, 1973, between Mr. Nixon, Mr. Dean, and two of the other de-fendants in the case, John D. Ehrlichman, then the White House adviser on domestic mat-ters, and H.R. Haldeman, Mr. Nixon's chief of staff. Tapes Disclosed Earlier

Tapes Disclosed Earlier

Both tapes had been disclosed previously, some parts in the edited transcripts Mr. Nixon re-Borted transcripts Mr. Nixon re-leased last spring and the re-mainder, including the "stonewall" section, by the House Judiciary Committee. The two tapes were played to the jury in conjunction with testimony by Mr. Dean, now a Federal prison inmate as a rebestimony by Mr. Dean, now a Federal prison inmate as a re-sult of his guilty plea last year to conspiracy in the cover-up. Mr. Dean, on the witness stand for the fourth day, told the jury about various meetings at the White House on March 21 and March 22, 1973, ;the period when the cover-up seemed about to come apart un-der an assortment of strains— the upcoming Senate Watergate hearings, for instance, and the increasing threats that the ori-ginal Watergate defendant might tell the true story about Watergate unless they received turther money and assurances. Mr. Dean told the jury, among other things, that he and among other things, that he and others at the White House had briefly considered asking Mr. Mitchell to "step forward" and take the blame for the events that culminated in the break-in at the Democratic national headquarters at the Watergate complex here on June 17, 1972, in the hope, Mr. Dean said, that the events at the White House after June 17—the cover-up— nould thus escape investiganould thus escape investiga-

John D. Ehrlichman leaving courthouse yesterday during recess for lunch in the Watergate trial.

The prosecution plans to question Mr. Dean for about an hour more tomorrow morning. Then the defense counsel will begin their cross-examination. Several of the lawyers have blready indicated that they con-sider Mr. Dean's credibility to be one of the major issues in the case, and the cross-examin-ation is thus expected to be long.

Complaint About Publicity In other development's at the brial, William S. Frates, one of Ur. Ehrlichman's defense attor-Tys, complained to the court a bench conference about prosecution-engendered publiciprosecution-engendered publici-ty about the case. The incident that prompted his complaint was an appea-rance on television yesterday by Leon Jaworski, the special prosecutor, in which Mr. Jawor-ski said he expected the trial to disclose the rest of the evidence regarding Mr. Nixon's role in the cover-up. Both the March 21 and the March 22 conversation played to the jury and the rest of the people in Judge Sirica's court today were essentially discus-sions of the various options Mr. Nixon and his aides could exercise either to end or to continue the cover-up. The options discussed at the March 21 meeting, among Mr. Nixon, Mr. Dean, Mr. Haldeman and Mr. Ehrlichman, included summoning White House and campaign aides before a grand jury and giving them immunity, thus preventing their convic-tions; having them testify in front of a specially created pa-nel instead, again with immuni-ty; and having them testify without immunity. The third option—testifying

The third option—testifying without immunity—was not consider at great length. at great length, however.

"Tit leads to some very drastic results," Mr. Ehrlichman said to the others at the meeting. "Counsel over here," he went on, presumably gesturing to-ward Mr. Dean, "has been read-ing some statutes, and, uh, there are awful opportunities for indictment." At the March 22 meeting, there are awrul opportunities for indictment." At the March 22 meeting, most of the discussion centered on another option: Having Mr. Dean write up some kind of ge-neral report for Mr. Nixon on Watergate, pretty much absolv-ing the White House staff of any involvement in it, and then having Mr. Nixon refer to this report should the question of his own knowledge and actions in the cover-up come up subse-quently. The discussion on March 22 also turned to how White House staff members should re-spond to requests for their tes-timony at the Watergate com-timony at the Watergate committee hearings. The crucial exchange came toward the end of the meeting, when Mr. Haldeman and Mr. Ehrlichman were gone, Mr. Dean was walking out, and Mr. Nixon wts left alone with Mr. Mitchell.

Nixon wts left alone with Mr. Mitchell. Mr. Nixon, speaking quickly and in a low voice, told Mr. Mitchell that he did not want to treat his staff the way Sherman Adams, an aide to President Eisenhower who had been dis-missed after a scandal, had been treated. And for that reason Mr. Nix-

And for that reason, Mr. Nix-on said, he did not care what happen. 'Stonewall It' happen. 'Stonewall It' "I want you all the stonewall it, let them plead the Fifth Amendment, cover up or any-thing else, if it'll save it "save the plan," Mr. Nixon said, ac-cording to the transcript of the conversation prepared by the presecution. "That's the whole point." point."

point." Mr. Nixon immediately adds that he would, however "pre-fer" that "you do it the other way," revealing tke truth. "And I would particularly prefer to do it that other wey if it's going to come out that way anyway," he said. Mr. Nixon makes a few more remarks about the likelihood of

Mr. Nixon makes a few more remarks about the likelihood of the story coming out, Mr. Mitchell says, "Well—" "I don't know," Mr. Nixon in-terjects, "but that's, uh, you know, up to this point the whole theory has been contain-ment, as you know, John." The legal argument over the admissibility of this portion of the tape arose because only Mr. Nixon and Mr. Mitchell partici-pated in the exchange.

Nixon and Mr. Mitchell partici-pated in the exchange. Judge Sirica, in his rulings on previous tapes, has made it clear that he believes a tape is admissible if one of the partici-pants in the conversation can recall the conversation and ver-ify the tape as a recording of recall the conversation and ver-ify the tape as a recording of the conversation. But neither Mr. Nixon nor Mr. Mitchell was available today to the prosecution to verify the accuracy of the March 22 tape —Mr. Mitchell because he can-not be compelled to tes tify against himself. Mr. Nixon be-cause, although the prosecution hhas subpoenaed him, he has contended that he is too sick to appear at the moment. 'Live' Witness Noted

'Live' Witness Noted

'Live' Witness Noted Mr. Hundley, who is handling Mr. Mitchell's defense with Pla-to Cacheris, pointed out to Judge Sirica that there was a "live" witness to the conversa-tion who was under subpoena. And, though Mr. Hundley did not remind the court of it, Mr. Nixon's attorney suggested last week that the former President would probably be well enough in three or four weeks to ap-pear.

pear. Then Mr. Hundley pointed out that the prosecution itself, in a memorandum last Sept. 16, had outlined the usual alternative procedure for "laying a founda-tion," as it is called, for a tape recording before it is admitted into evidence.

The procedure requires pre-sentation of evidence about three things—the circumstan-ces surrounding the conversa-tion being taped, the method by which the tape was made and which the tape was made, and the chain of custody of the tape. Mr. Hundley contended that Mr. Dean could testify only about the first.

Prosecutors Tell of Precedents The prosecutors, though, both Mr. Neal and one of his col-leagues, Richard Ben-Veniste, said that they had recently found precedents in other court rulings for putting a tape into evidence without all this proof. Judge Sirica thereupon per-mitted both prosecution and defense lawyers to question Mr. Dean about the circumstances of the conversation—the prose-cution seeking to show that no one else could have entered the Nixon - Mitchell conversation without Mr. Dean's knowledge; the defense trying to show the opposite.

opposite. When the tape was played, it When the tape was played, it included the disputed section— despite objections by Mr. Hund-ley and also by John J. Wilson, one of Mr. Haldeman's lawyers. Judge Sirica did not make his reasoning public. Mr. Dean testified for three days last week, giving a chro-nological account of the coverup, and he resumed his testimo-ny this morning by picking up from the conversation he had described Friday—his conver-sation on the morning of March 21, 1973, with Mr. Nixon and

Mr. Haldeman, in which he told Mr. Nixon that he thought the cover-up was a "cancer" growing on the Presidency.
Mr. Dean said today that he met with Mr. Haldeman and Mr. Ehrlichman later on the list state on the first tape placed to the jury today.
Together, he said, the three would be no investigation of the events following the watergate break-in. — of the watergate break-in. — of the events following the three would be no investigation of the events leading to thoreak-in.
Meting With Haldeman
Mr. Dean said that he had arn of the first guilt about the events leading to three would be no investigation for ward and admit his guilt about the events leading to three would be no investigation of the rest at the tape shwod, the men is that period, was held to discuss ways to deal with the upcoming because of several factors, such as the growing pression guilt watergate committee.
Mr. Dean said that he had arn of the first meeting with the pression guilt wat udge Sirica, who he hallway just before the two went into Mr. Nixon's office in the trail of those original defendation the meeting with the pression guilt at was repeating testimony he had given earlier before the two went into Mr. Mitchell.
Mr. Ban said, he told Mr. Haldeman and Mr. Ehrlichman, Mr. Haldeman in the there were two "alter" was repeating testimony in go all the way and unravel, and lay it out for what it is, "if the theres."
James F. Neal, the prosecutor be confronting eo fine case, asked Mr. Mitchell.
The was a brief colloquy in which Mr. Firates objected udge Sirica, asked for the maximum of the plan. The group substother options, "for want of a lawe body." he said.

wagons. There was a brief colloquy in which Mr. Frates objected, Judge Sirica, asked for the meaning of the phrasand Mr. Dean replied that it was "sort of a cowboy-Indian phrase," meaning a plan "to protect the White House from everyone else, to protect ourselves." And then Mr. Dean gave his answer to Mr. Neal: Mr. Dean, Mr. Haldeman, Mr. Ehrlichman and the President were to be protected. Mr. Mitchell and Jeb Stuart Magruder, the deputy di-rector of the Committee for the re-election of the President, wer not to be protected. Mr. Magruder is serving a prison term as a result of his guilty plea to conspiracy to ob-

Mr. Magruder is serving a prison term as a result of his guilty plea to conspiracy to ob-struct justice in the Watergate affair, and is expected to be one of the prosecution's major witnesses at the trial. Mr. Dean's testimony about these meetings was a some-what more detailed and pre-cise version of the account he gave the Senate Watergate committee in his opening state-ment at the committee's hear-ings in 1973. Mr. Dean's testimony to the

הודות הנוזיד היאוקדאוידייי