

Notes on People

by Laurie Johnston

●
Qualifying as a member of a "lower-income family," Jeanne Ehrlichman has started a Federally funded $10,000-a-year job with the Seattle Symphony Orchestra. Her husband, John D. Ehrlichman, who faces disbarment as a lawyer, is free while appealing his two Watergate felony convictions, which he received a 2½-to 8-year sentence. The Ehrlichmans have five children, not all of them at home.

To get her new job as coordinator of the orchestra's educational program, Mrs. Ehrlichman competed with four other persons, all musicians. She has a degree in education, with a minor in music, from the University of California at Los Angeles. Seattle's personnel office said she was chosen because she had teaching experience and had worked for the symphony as a volunteer. Mrs. Ehrlichman said, "My family needs the money."

●