

Rabbi Korff Quits The Nixon Fund

Washington

Rabbi Baruch Korff, one of the last defenders of former President Nixon, said yesterday he has resigned as head of a fund created to pay $400,000 for Mr. Nixon's outstanding legal fees.

Rabbi Korff told a press conference that another $25,000 had just been paid to Mr. Nixon's lawyers, bringing the total payments by the fund to $190,000. A balance of $210,000 remains, he said.

The rabbi, who saw Mr. Nixon frequently during the former President's last days in office, said he was leaving the unpaid job because of family and personal reasons.

Rabbi Korff said money will continue to be collected by the President Nixon Justice Fund to pay for legal fees in court hearings involving Mr. Nixon's term as President.
