Q. What's happened to Rose Mary Woods who was Richard Nixon's personal secretary? Why doesn't Nixon have her with him in San Clemente especially after she took the rap for that 18½-minute tape erasure?—Louise S., San Juan Capistrano, Cal.

A. Rose Mary Woods works in the office of the former U.S. President in Washington, D.C., at $36,000 a year. Nixon insisted that she be placed on the government payroll at that figure. Miss Woods will have accrued 20 years of government service and will retire before this year is out. Her annual pension will approximate $27,500. She will then return to work for Richard Nixon on a consultation basis.
