

David Frost Signs Nixon for TV Shows

Beverly Hills

Former President Nixon will tape four "no holds barred" 90-minute television memoirs with British television personality David Frost for international airing after the 1976 elections. Frost announced yesterday.

Frost, a former talk show host, said "the amount of money involved is confidential. I'm relying on Mr. Nixon's word that he would speak out in candor. I can not even give you a ball park figure on the financial arrangements."

Frost said the ex-President agreed to more than 20 taping sessions later this year at his San Clemente home.

"The former President has neither requested nor has he received any editorial control, whether in terms of the content or editing of the programs, the use of newsreel footage or by way of prior knowledge of any of the questions," Frost said.

"No subject, including Watergate, has been barred."

Frost held aloft a 15-page contract signed by Mr. Nixon, which specifies the former President will talk about Watergate, and said he was acting on behalf of an international consortium of broadcasting organizations.

But he refused to name any of the broadcasters or networks, either in this country or abroad.

"I have a number of verbal agreements with broadcasters," Frost said. "I won't say who until they are signed." 9/1/75

The contract with Mr. Nixon was signed Saturday night at San Clemente after a five-hour discussion with Frost and Mr. Nixon's agent, Irving Lazar.

Frost said the former President looked fit and well.
