

N.y. Firm Names Ziegler To Position

New York

Jon Ziegler, who was press secretary to former President Nixon, has been named manager of international services for the consulting engineering firm of Syska and Hennessy.

The firm's executive vice president, Arnold Windman, said yesterday that Ziegler would be based in Washington and have "extensive responsibilities for our work in the Middle East."

He declined to give Ziegler's salary or other details.

The firm, which has offices here in Washington, Paris and Tehran, specializes in mechanical and electrical engineering problems.
