Kissinger Gets and Gives Apologies

in the Canadian National Press Club where journalists were waiting to record toasts exchanged between Mr. Kissinger and his host, Allan MacEachen, External Affairs Minister of Canada. A recording was made by a Canadian radio reporter. At dinner, Mr. Kissinger also commented on the late President John F. Kennedy and his wife, and Premier Chou En-lai of China.

According to an Administration official, Mr. Kissinger telephoned Mr. Nixon late this morning at the latter's estate in San Clemente, Calif., to offer apologies for any embarrassment he might have caused his former chief his former chief.

Apology for Transmission

Apology for Transmission

Mr. MacEachen, who read the reports of the remarks this morning, telephoned Mr. Kissinger this morning to apologize for the inadvertent transmission and he later told reporters in Ottawa that "he assures me that it in no way mars
his splendid visit to Ottawa."

Apologies were also proffered by Mr. MacEachen's spokesman, Glenn Buick, who was responsible for the radio hookup in Ottawa, to Robert Anderson, the State Department son, the State Department spokesman.

Apparently, until the early editions of th The Washington Post appeared last night with a front-page article about the a front-page article about the incident, no other news media had carried reports about it.

By DAVID BINDER

Special to Th New York Times
WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—Secretary of State Kissinger's remarks about former President Richard M. Nixon and other prominent figures at a private party in Ottawa have caused a spate of apologies to and by the Secretary.

A tape recording of his observations at a dinner in the Canadian capital Tuesday (has Mr. Kissinger calling Mr. Nixon "a very odd man," "an unpleasant man," and "an artificial man," and "an artificial man," "and "an artificial man," "and "an artificial man," "and "an artificial man," "and "an artificial man," "an unpleasant man," and "an artificial man," "and "an artificial man," "and "an artificial man," "an unpleasant man," and "an artificial man," "and "an artificial man," "and

HE NEW YORK TIMES, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1975

After Remarks Are Taped in Canada

"As President for the first pleasant man. He was so nerv-disaster. In the next year . . . him to be on television. He was very intelligent and he knew yery nervous. He was an artificial man. In the sense that when people excited. But what exactly did he accomplish . . " At carefully so that nothing some points the tape was unintelligible.

Comment on Nixon

On the subject of Mr. Nixon, he continued:

"He was very good in foreign policy as President . . . He was a very odd man. He was very decisive in his own way. He went to the heart of a problem thing about her attractiveness.

Ous. It was such an effort for him to be on television. He was an artification him to be on television. He was an artification him to be on television. He was an artification him to be on television. He was an artification him to be on television. He was an artification him to be on television. He was an artification him to be on television. He was an artification him to be on television. He was heard to say of Premier Chou: "Very ill, and I think he's dy-him to be on television. He was heard to say of Premier Chou: "Very ill, and I think he's dy-him to be on television. He was heard to say of Premier Chou: "Very ill, and I think he's dy-him to be on television. He was heard to say of Premier Chou: "Very ill, and I think he's dy-him to be on television. He was heard to say of Premier Chou: "Very ill, and I think he's dy-him to be on television. He was heard to say of Premier Chou: "Very ill, and I think he's dy-him to be on television. He was heard to say of Premier Chou: "Very ill, and I think he's dy-him to be on television. He was heard to say of Premier Chou: "Very ill, and I think he's dy-him the met thought it out carefully so that nothing in the met of the worner he thought it out carefully so that nothing in the met of the worner he didn't enjoy people. More the worner he didn't enjoy people. More the met of the worner he didn't enjoy people. More the worner he didn't tenjoy people. More the worner he didn't tenjoy people. More the worner he didn't tenjoy people. More the worner he wo two years I thought he was a ous. It was such an effort for to China, Mr. Kissinger was

See also KPFA News 16 Oct 75