

Memo

Rabbi Baruch Korff appears, 1½ hours, on initial program of new evening talk show jockey, Ron Owens, who said he had had Korff as a guest several times before when he had a similar program in the east.

Korff, who spoke by telephone - but without this being specifically noted, or his location given - said nothing new in his defense of Nixon, but repeatedly gave the address of the President Nixon Justice Fund and asked for contributions. His responses to listeners who called were evasive and insubstantial.
