Ex-Nixon Aide Clawson Suffers a Stroke

San Juan,
Puerto Rico

Ken W. Clawson, communications director under former President Nixon, was in a San Juan hospital yesterday after reportedly suffering a stroke on the Caribbean island of St. Martin.

A spokesman for Presbyterian Hospital said Clawson was admitted Tuesday and described him as "conscious, but disoriented."

Clawson, a 39-year-old former newspaperman, resigned from the White House staff.
