2D JACKSON LINK TO C.I.A. REPORT

JAN 2 8 1976

Senator Said to Have Advised Helms on How to Reply to Watergate Inquiry Questions

NYTimes

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27— Cenator Henry M. Jackson advised Richard Helms, former director of central intelligence, on how to respond to Congressional questions on Watergate at a dinner meeting wiah Senator Stuart Symington early in 1973, according to Congressional sources. al sources.

This was the second reported This was the second reported incident to come to light in which Mr. Jackson was sought out by C.I.A. or former C.I.A. officials and asked how to deal with Congressional invesaigations. This and several other contacts by Mr. Helms with nembers of Congress are exected to come under scrutiny s the Justice Department presents ias investigation into whether Mr. Helms committed personal contents of the contents of the committed personal contents of the contents of t her Mr. Helms committed per-ury in his Capitol hill testimo-

Mr. Helms, Ambasasdor to Yan, returned here from Teheran late Sunday for Congressional appearances. He has reained Edward Bennett Williams, a prominent Washington awyer, to represent him.

Senator Jackson confirmed hat Mr. Helms had been his inner guest in early 1973, but aid he could not remember he date. He added that he elieved it was after Mr. Helms ad been confirmed as Ambasador in February.

Vatergate Involvement Feared

Vatergate Involvement Feared

Mr. Jackson recalled that Mr. Jackson recalled that enator Symington has asked im to talk to Mr.Helms about he C.I.A. Waspects of the Vatergate case. Mr. Helms was vorried that they [people in he Nixon Administration] were rying to implicate him and J.I.A. in the Watergate mater," Mr. Jackson said.

He said that he had invited.

He said that he had invited fr. Helms to dinner on a Sun-lay evening, and that he arived with Mr. Symington. Sentor Jackson said that he never ad discussed C.I.A. operations a Chile with Mr. Helms, but hat it was his memory Mr. Lymington and Mr. Helms did symington and Mr. Helms did iscuss Chile in his home.

He added that he had "just istened to" what Mr. Helms had to say about meetings with I. R. Haldeman and John D. Chrlichman, then top NNix ides, and had told him "to ay out all the facts" before

Senate investigators. Mr. Jack-on said that he was unsure which Congressional investiga-ion Mr. Helms was anxious about, but he said he was sure the meeting took place after Mr. Helms had completed his

Mr. Helms had completed his Senate confirmation hearings in February, 19873.

Mr. Symington was unavailable for comment today because he had undergone an operation at the ational Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, Ad.

On May 21, Mr. Helms returned from Iran and testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on C.I.A. connections with Watergate. The hearing was not closed because Senator Symington pressed for it to be public, committee sources said ces said.

Unusual Aspect Noted

Unusual Aspect Noted

What appeared unusual to several Congressional committee aides was why Mr. Jackson's advice would be sought. He was not a member of the committee at that time. He was, however, a member of a C.I.A. Oversight Committee. Two sets of testimony by Mr. Helms are under study at the Justice Department. One is testimony before the Foreign Relations Committee in February 1973 and the other is testimony in closed session before a subcommittee that was investigating C.I.A. relations with the International Telephone and Telegraph, Inc. in Chile.

Earlier this week, the New York Times published informations.

York Times published informa-tion from a still secret report of the House Select Committee on Intelligence that implied Mr. Jackson had advised C.I.A. of-Jackson had advised C.I.A. officials on how to protect the agency from a Senate investigation of Chile operations. He fenied the allegation, but actnowledged that he did give C.I.A. advice on "procedural" natters.

Mr. Helms told members of he Senate Government Operations Committee today that he believed a Congressional committee set up to monitor intelpelieved a Congressional com-nittee set up to monitor intel-ligence agencies should be briefed on covert operations be-fore they were undertaken. He said that in the past some members of Congress had re-sisted being told about such operations "because it could be embarrassing to them politically." Meanwhile, the House Intelligence Committee voted, 9 to 4, formally to recommend that funds for all intelligence had disclosed in related items be disclosed in the President's annual budget. Funds for the agency are now disguised in this defense de-partment budget.