

Personalities

The Richard Nixons, of San Clemente, Calif., spent their Saturday night dining with the James Roosevelts of Corona del Mar, Calif., a return engagement from the evening a few weeks ago, when the James Roosevelts went to dinner at the Richard Nixons'.

Roosevelt, the son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the 1972 chairman of Southern California Democrats for Nixon, reported that the evening was "very enjoyable."

Singer Bob Dylan attended a party by singer-songwriter Kinky Friedman in Hollywood, recently. Rolling Stone reported, and 1) got bopped on the head with a beer can upon arrival, and 2) got called a "four-foot, two-inch Jewish priñce" by Elliott Gould whom he, Friedman and Art Garfunkel serenaded with Gould's ex-wife Barbara Streisand's song, "People."

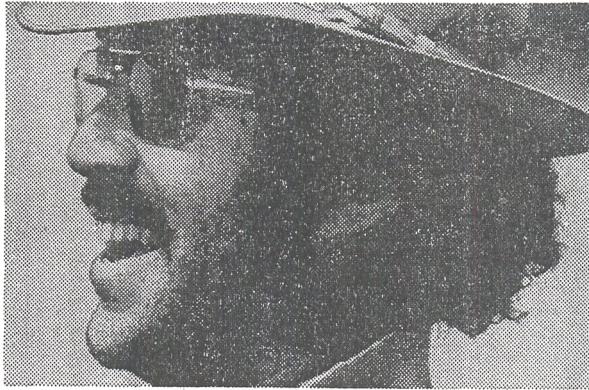

Walter Annenberg has announced his intention of combatyng "the predominantly liberal" national news media with an eight-page conservative paper called "American Views," to be published every two weeks beginning next month. Annenberg is the former publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer, as well as a former Ambassador to the Court of St. James. . . The New York Times' publisher's mother, Iphigene Ochs Sulzberger, was given an honorary doctor of human letters degree by Hebrew Union College Jewish Institute of Religion Sunday, at its centennial celebration.

A character named Citizen, who works for the Federal Energy Administration First (FEA), is in trouble with Rep. John Dingell (D-Mich.), chairman of the House Commerce Committee's Energy Subcommittee.

"Quite frankly, they are going to get some doggoned healthy cuts in the public relations budget," Rep. Dingell said after charging that the adventures of First Citizen, hero of a children's book put out by the FEA, is a lobbyist for Administration policies in energy. In the "Energy fable," First Citizen is trying to stop a mythical country from usingupitsnaturalresources.

Cicely Tyson, top left, took a 10-day break from filming "The Blue Bird" in Leningrad and flew to Los Angeles to co-star in the movie version of "The River Niger."

Kinky Friedman, below, threw a party in Hollywood recently at which Bob Dylan was hit by a beer can.

Top photo by Associated Press; bottom photo by James K. W. Atherton —The Washington Post

The work record for playing Monopolyunderwater was broken by some Portland, Ore., scuba divers on Sunday night, and the last anybody checked they were still passing Go. The previous record was 220 continuous hours, and the new champions, who are doint it to raise money for the Easter Seal drive, are aiming for 300 hours. . . Albert Kovacs, 27, a Rumanian in Auch, France, to compete in the pre-Olympic International Modern Pentathlon events, has asked for temporary political asylum. . . Steve Ford, the President's son, will participate in a "bronc riding clinic" May 1 and 2 in Spring Creek, Nev.

Cicely Tyson said that by concentrating, she has been able to do an entire film, "The River Niger," during a 10-day intermission from filming another picture, "The Blue Bird," in Leningrad . . . Moscow's Bolshoi Thea-

—Judith Martin