Aug. 24, 1966 - Interview of Lane by Joe Dolan, telephone call-in Wednesday program, KEWB, Oakland. Program runs from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. Dolan devoted entire three hours to interview and did not accept any calls.

Aug. 25 - Dolan, conversation with callers, three hours.
Thursday With the exception of three calls on other subjects, all calls were on assassination and Lane program. Of these, only one caller accepted Commission version of events.

On Wednesday, Dolan had suggested callers order Lane's book from Paul Elder and indicated store had a good supply. On Thursday evening said supply completely exhausted by 11 a.m., but "several thousand" would arrive from Los Angeles by Friday. "Several thousand" presumably for entire Bay area.

Aug. 26 - According to Dolan, Paul Elder sold out again.
Friday

Sept. 1 - Redwood Bookstore. Mrs. Roth said could not obtain copies of Rush to Judgment from supplier because completely sold out. (Uncertain whether she meant local situation, or publisher sold out. First edition, 30,000, Aug. 15.) Second printing scheduled for latter half of September.
