MRS. ONASSIS CITES 'BLACKMAIL' CARD

Accuses Galella of Attempt to Collect a Payoff

By MAX H. SEIGEL

Mrs. Aristole Onassis charged Mrs. Aristole Onassis charged yesterday in Federal Court here that a Christmas card sent to her by Ronald E. Galella, the photographer, in 1970 was an attempt at blackmail.

The card shows a Santa Claus handing a wad of money to the nanding a wad of money to the photographer. And bsside them is a theatrical placard saying see "The Payoff, starring Aristole Onassis as Santa and Ron Galella as the Paparazzo" — paparezzo meaning freelance phoparezzo meaning freelance pho-ing the case without a jury:

"Under the circumstances of your own appointment as a member of this judiciary by this lady's late husband, with the Kennedy family children involved in this case, to hear the word 'blackmail' uttered by the widow of the President who appointed you, I think is improper. It should never have been said."

Whatsoever."

The judge then denied both Mr. Julien's motion to strike Mrs. Onassis by Mr. Galella, Mrs. Onassis by Mr. Galella, Mrs. Onassis by Mr. Galella, who contended she interfered with his livelihood as a free-lance photographer.

Direct examination ended in mid-afternoon, with Mrs. Onassis saying that the total effect to its saying that the total effect is sued previously on the subject, Mr. Julien was problem to cause her anguish, fear I for her safety at times, and I for $1.3
The judge then denied both Mrs. Onassis by Mr. Galella, who contended she interfered with his livelihood as a free-lance photographer.

Direct examination ended in mid-afternoon, with Mrs. Onassis saying that the total effect is sued previously on the subject, Mr. Julien was problem to cause her anguish, fear if the content of the proviously on the subject, Mrs. Onassis by Mr. Galella, who contended she interfered with his livelihood as a free-lance photographer.

Direct examination ended in mid-afternoon, with Mrs. Onassis saying that the total effect with the proviously on the subject, Mrs. Julien was problem to a claim for $1.3
The judge then denied both Mrs. Onassis by Mr. Galella, who contended she interfered with his livelihood as a free-lance photographer.

Direct examination ended in mid-afternoon, with Mrs. Onassis answer and his motion for a mistrial.

Direct examination ended in mid-afternoon, with Mrs. Onassis answer and his motion for a mistrial. ing the case without a jury: "Under the circumstances of rayon, with Mr. Onassis (as Santa) and Mr. Galella. Card was shown at trial here.

DESCRIBED AS BLACKMAIL BID: This card was described by Mrs. Aristotle Onassis yesterday as an attempt by Ronald E. Galella at blackmail. She testified that it was sent to her by Mr. Galella in 1970. Wording on sign at right describes scene as "The Payoff," with Mr. Onassis (as Santa) and Mr. Galella. Card was shown at trial here.

Mrs. Onassis told the court that "the message this card conveyed to me was blackmail and that Galella would continue hounding us until my husband paid him off."

Use of the word "blackmail' drew an immediate protest from Albred S. Julien, counsel for Mr. Galella, He said the Christmas card was a joke "Maybe a bad joke" but no more than that. The lawyer then asked that the statement b stricken.

A Mistrial Asked

Mr. Julien's statement was not called for. He said that if the lawyer wanted to challenge him in an attempt to keep him from presiding, there was "a method presiding, there was "a method that the right to resort to. He did not.

"To throw in this kind of cocasions on which she allegedly had been harassed by the end that justice be done, it doesn't affect me," Judge Cooper said, "but certainly it is extremely unwarranted, to the point where I am ashamed that counsel thought that it would have any impression on matsrial. He told Judge Irving Ben Cooper, who is hearing the case without a jury:

"Under the circumstances of "I was a shown at trial here.

Mr. Julien's statement was not called for. He said that if the Court, "your Honor might the Court, "I was a laways under surveillance. The Christmas card and the Court in the Court, "Your Honor might the Court, "Your Honor might the Court, "Your Honor