

From announcement in Holt, Rinehart, Winston catalog, summer 1968:

A CITIZEN'S DISSENT, by Mark Lane

320 pp $6.95
April publication

" ... a record of the way 'a system reacts to a great event that bears within it elements sufficient to expose the full extent of its own stresses and strains.'"

" ... makes the strong point that the country needs convincing answers - or an honest admission of the lack of them - when it deals with an event of the magnitude of the assassination."
