College unrest, turmoil, whatchamacall it

The television producers have many names for what's happening in the high schools, colleges and universities. All of them imply that student activism is a "disruption of the learning process," WHATEVER else it may be; that disruption is the PRIMARY purpose and all issues are secondary. Semanticist S. I. Hayakawa is the most vocal of these word tricksters. These verbal tricks prise and louse up the conduct of all the dialogues and panel discussions and seen on campus and on television. To cut a long story short, MOLE (the Harvard Monthly), the university administration, the 1967 trip to North Vietnam, the alert mind schooled in the tricks of a prim, proper school for the black student and Panther hip. It has as many beards as Beethoven—skill than all but a bias—and one of the nation's most accurate. These new, up-to-date Harvard President Nathan M. Pusey talks only to the Cabots and the Lodges who talk only to the Pope and the Pentagon.

Guess who's subversive—the neo-nazis

As if we didn't know it all along. But it has taken Drew Pearson and his shrewd investigative team to give us a few of the hard facts.

"This column has now penetrated the Mafia-like secrecy of a sinister, neo-Nazi movement that seeks to overthrow the U.S. government. Already it directs an $850,000-a-year lobbying campaign on Capitol Hill, publishes one of America's famous old Magazines, operates a publishing house, controls a dozen front organizations and last year handed out $90,000 to candidates for Congress."

They are not morons in uniforms playing war games in the underbrush. According to Pearson they are, "doctors, lawyers, writers and business men from America's upper middle class. They belong to secret cells where they are known only by code names."

"They call their subterranean society the Francis Parker Yockey Movement, named for a neo-Nazi philosopher who committed suicide in a San Francisco jail cell in 1960. But they take their credo, as Yockey did, from Adolf Hitler, whose birthday they plan to celebrate with secret rites on Sunday (April 20).

"They sing the old Nazi songs, hoard Nazi war relics and display the swastika at their meetings. Their slogan: 'Was mich nicht umbringt, macht mich starker.' Translated, this means, 'What does not destroy me makes me stronger.'

"They seek the overthrow of democracy in the United States, the unification of Western Europe under a neo-Nazi dictatorship and an Armageddon with Russia. Just as Hitler boldly set forth his aims; in 'Mein Kampf,' Yockey outlines his strategy in resurrecting Nazism in a pseudo-philosophical book called 'Imperium.' This has become the Mein Kampf of the new movement.

"Yockey concluded: 'The soil of Europe, rendered sacred by the streams of blood which have made it spiritually fertile for a millennium, will once again stream with blood until the barbarians (Russians) and distorters (Jews) have been driven out.'"
