

KENNEDY'S DOUBTS ON POLICY TOLD

Washington

Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.-Ore.) said yesterday that President Kennedy was conducting an intense re-examination of United States policy in Vietnam when he was assassinated, and "I happen to believe the policies would have been different had the President lived . . . to complete his review."

(Complete story filed CIA.)